JURY RENEWS CONN MURDER QUIZ

'Clue' To Co-ed's Fate 'Dud'

Reports yesterday that the disappearance of Ruth Baumgardner, above 22-year-old Ohio Wesleyan co-ed, had been solved with the confession of a St. Clairsville, O., suspect, were considered today just another of the many false clues circulated since the co-ed disappeared last May 5. Police, however, said that the suspect's confession did lead to re-opening of the case of Highway Patrolman George Conn, slain in southern Ohio The suspect admitted he and three other men, all of whom are in custody, are implicated in the Conn slaying

Blast Wrecks Airport Head's Cottage

PORCH RIPPED OFF BUILDING NEAR ASHLAND

Residence Just Completed By Dr. Riebel Damaged By Explosion In Night.

OFFICIALS HUNT CLUES

Find No Evidence Of Type Of Explosive Employed Or Perpetrators Of Act.

ASHLAND — Ashland authorities today were conducting an investigation into a mysterious explosion last night which partially destroyed the front of a new cottage on the farm of Dr. George Riebel, prominent physician here, near the Ashland airport, one mile north of Ashland on the Troy road.

The explosion occurred sometime between 10 and 10:30 p. m., and ripped off the front porch of the new six-room cottage, according to Ashland authorities. The investigation is being conducted by Sheriff H. F. Wallett and Prosecuting Attorney A. Ross Siberling, with the assistance of Ashland police.

It is believed that an explosive of some kind was placed under the front porch. No clues could be found, however, to determine what caused the explosion, or who was responsible, authorities said.

Cottage Built Only Recently.

Dr. Riebel, president of the Ashland Airport company, had recently built the cottage at an estimated cost of $4,000, and had planned to sell it, Mrs. Riebel said. The building was located on a farm adjoining the airport property.

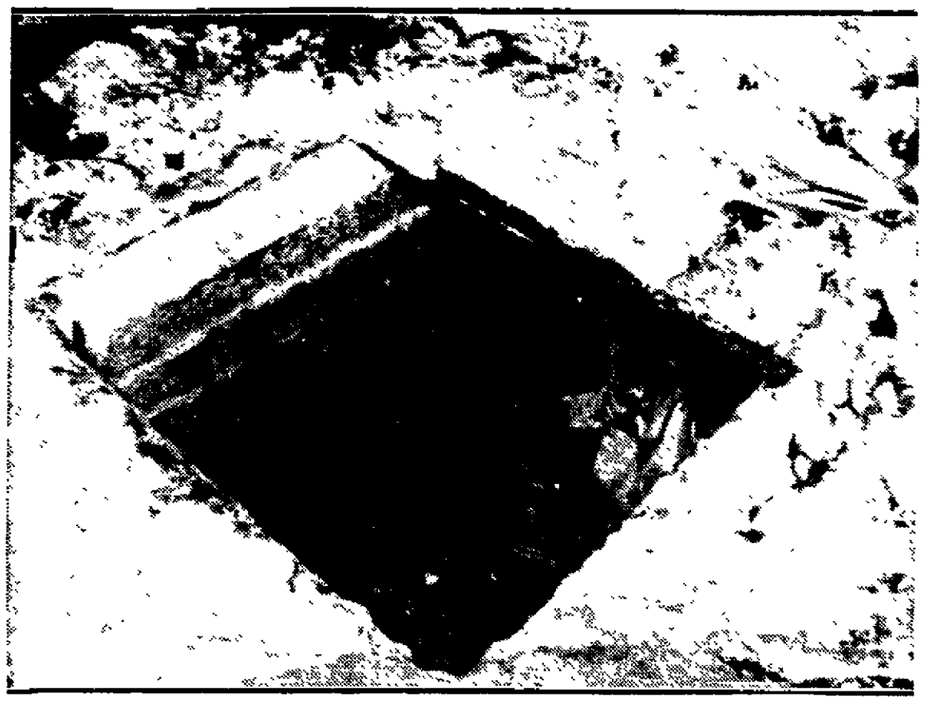
The home had only recently been completed and was unoccupied Dr. Riebel was in Loudonville today and could not be reached for a statement concerning the explosion, but Mrs. Riebel said the doctor had never received any threats that she knew of, and that neither of them have any idea who might be responsible for the explosion.

At Home At Time.

At the time of the blast both Dr. and Mrs. Riebel were at their home on Sandusky street Both heard the noise, but did not know until this morning that it was their cottage that had been the source of it. No estimate was made of the amount of damage done.

During the past summer Dr. Riebel leased the airport to the Republic Steel Corporation of Niles and Warren, from which they flew food in their planes to striking workmen in their plants.

Where G-Men Found Body of Chicagoan



In this shallow wood frame dugout, implanted level with the earth 12 miles northwest of Spooner, Wis., federal agents found the bodies of Charles S. Ross, wealthy Chicagoan abducted and slain, and James Gray, slain accomplice in the abduction. The G-men were led to the spot by Peter Anders, confessed abductor-slayer of the two men Federal agents, under J. Edgar Hoover, also announced that $30.000 of the $50.000 ransom money had been recovered.

U. S. Outlook On Business Brightening

That's Claim of Federal, Private Economists In Viewing Past Month.

WASHINGTON—(AP)— Federal and private economists alike, informed persons said today, have reported to the White House that the business outlook has improved substantially in the ast month.

Recovery has not yet been resumed, most of the economists agreed, but the chart of business health is smoothing out in significant fashion

Just when the line will turn upward with some assurance of maintaining that direction cannot be determined now, they added.

One expert called an important "straw in the wind" increased employment in the textile and shoe industries The textile increase was contrary to seasonal expectations and the shoe boost was more than seasonal.

Another economist attached considerable significance to a recent jump of building permits in New York City.

A third forecast employment would be higher at the end of this month than at the beginning because of an apparent effort of many manufacturers to spread the work now available.

Prices Show Hike.

Another symptom was said to be the steadiness and occasional increases in some raw material prices. The wholesale commodity price index is higher than it was a month ago.

Belated figures showed retail trade in December held up to 1936 levels.

These views of men on whom the president relies for advice about business prospects brought speculation that the chief executive has in mind principally long range problems rather than the immediate economic situation in his conferences with business, labor and agriculture representatives.

In asking the automobile industry yesterday to work out a program for regularizing production and sales, Mr Roosevelt began an experiment which he has indicated he hopes to extend to business generally and not merely as a "temporary" measure

At the suggestion of the chief executive, leading figures in the 'Confession" By One Names 3 Others In Slaying Sept. 27 Of Road Patrolman.

'CLUE' ON CO-ED FAILS

Quartet Can't Be Linked With Baumgardner Mystery Yet, Col. Black Says.

CADIZ — (AP)—Renewed activity in the investigation of Ohio Highway Patrolman George Conn's slaying coincided today with the scheduled reconvening of the Harrison county grand jury.

Common Pleas Judge Barclay Moore convened the jury in extraordinary secret session late yesterday. Three members of the highway patrol's staff of investigators assigned to the Conn case and three Pittsburgh policemen met with the jury.

Col. Lynn Black, patrol superintendent, disclosed in Columbus that four men were being questioned in connection with the shooting of Conn last Sept. 27, near Freeport, Harrison county. He said a confession had been obtained from one and that the slaying had been re-enacted several times.

Won't Comment on Jury.

Black declined comment on whether the jury was investigating the Conn case, explaining: "We are working on the Conn case and it might spoil it if I said anything more now." Judge Barclay pledged the jurors to secrecy.

The patrol superintendent said the confession had been obtained from a colored man he identified as Charles Ford, 20. He described the others held for questioning as Bernard Masulla, 24, Pete Sereno, 21, and Booker Johnson, 42. Johnson also is colored. No charges have been filed.

Johnson was being held at the Belmont county jail in St Clairsville Sheriff's Deputy Joe Zelk said there that Johnson furnished the tip which led to the questioning of Ford Black declined to say where the others were being held.

Anti-Gambling Fever Sweeping Ohio Cities

Mansfield Plans No Campaign as Concerted Drives Spread; Slots Banned For Years; Hunter Says Conditions Satisfactory.

There is a concerted anti-gambling campaign on in a number of Ohio cities, an Associated Press survey revealed today, but there is no such campaign under way in Mansfield, because gambling of the type under fire has been banned here for several years.

The Associated Press reported vigorous campaigns in the state's three largest cities—Cleveland, Cincinnati and Columbus—against numbers writing, pin ball machines and slot machines. At Toledo, City Manager John N. Edy said a "relentless war" had reduced gambling there to its "lowest ebb in the history of the city."

Other smaller cities were also conducting campaigns. But Mayor Claude M. Hunter here pointed to the fact that slot machines have been banned for years and would continue to be banned. They have also been banned in the county by Sheriff E. P. Long, who instituted that policy when he took office and has not deviated from it.

Bans Juveniles.

Mayor Hunter said he recognized the fact that there were punchboards in Mansfield, but said he "wasn't opposed to them unless they were abused" and added that he would act if he found that juveniles were permitted to play them.

"I feel we're going along in a satisfactory manner," Hunter said today, commenting on gambling in Mansfield and the campaigns in other cities.

The only slot machines in Mans-

00 QUIT DAT

Boy Fwiends Don't Wike Baby Talk, So Cut It, Girls.

SALT LAKE CITY—(AP)—Even though the boy-friends say you're cute and cuddlesome and have a baby-face, young woman, resist temptation—don't talk baby talk.

It may get you a few dates to begin with but most men prefer grown-up words and phrases, said Miss Marion Redd, speech instructor at the University of Utah today.

"Baby talk may have attracted men in grandmother's day, but it doesn't work at all in 1938," she added.

"The men who do enjoy such conversation tend to have infantile minds."

So do the baby-talkers, she added.

OFFICE LOOTED

Thieves Take Radio From Springfield Township School.

The theft of a cabinet radio from the office of Supt. L. C. Stingel of Springfield township schools, was reported today to Sheriff E. P Long.

Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman, who investigated, said the burglar had entered the school building at Ontario by breaking the glass in a basement window. The desk in Stingel's office had been ransacked but no other articles were reported missing, Freeman said.

DIES IN CREEK

Ohioan Drowned After Auto Plunges Into Water.

POMEROY — (AP) — Leonard Johnson, 27, of West Columbia, W. Va., was drowned late last night when he lost his way in a heavy fog and his automobile plunged into Thomas Fork creek. Lou Frasier and Gerald Luellan, riding with him, escaped unharmed.

MAPS PROGRAM

Fairless Says U. S. Steel To Spend 80 Millions.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Benjamin F. Fairless said today the United States Steel corporation planned to spend about $80,000,000 on plant modernization within the next nine months.

"In addition," he said in a statement to the senate unemployment committee, "if business conditions warrant, there will be undoubtedly other expenditures in considerable amounts during 1938."

Fairless was prevented by illness from appearing before the committee in person. He sent his statement instead

One point he emphasized was that, in his opinion, there could be no reduction in steel prices without corresponding cuts in wages and other production costs

ABSOLVE GIRL IN FATAL SHOOTING

Police Agree Death of Former Grid Star Was Accidental; Funeral On Monday.

Police today absolved a 19-year-old colored girl of all blame in the fatal shooting of Samuel Albert Banks, 20, colored, former Mansfield high school football star, in the bedroom of his rooming house Thursday night

Lillie Mae Brooks, 149 Lily street, who was still held in city jail was expected to be released sometime today.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said the girl probably would be released today pending the action of County Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott and Dr. Hugh C. Winbigler, Richland county coroner.

Bates said his investigation was completed and that all evidence and statements in the case would be turned over to the prosecutor and coroner with the recommendation that the girl be released.

The statement by Emery Merritt, who rushed to the boy's side before he lapsed into unconsciousness was one of the important factors in the case, the chief said. Merritt, at whose home the boy had roomed, said Banks mumbled, "Call a doctor quick—I shot myself."

Dr. Wimbigler stated this morning that he had not yet received the chief's report but said

GETS PEN IN CCC EMBEZZLEMENT

Government Clerk Sentenced In $84,000 Fund Shortage.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Reno E. Stitely, 29-year-old government clerk who embezzled $84,000 of government funds by padding CCC payrolls with checks he cashed himself, faced the prospect today of spending the next 6 to 12 years in prison.

Federal Judge Joseph W. Cox also assessed the maximum fine, $36,000. This will stand as a lien against any of Stitely's property that may be found for attachment. He pleaded guilty.

An investigator's report which Senator Pittman (D-Nev.) read to the senate said the $2,300 voucher clerk in the park service had bought a $12,000 home, one or two automobiles each year for several years and had banked more than $70,000.

BACKS DONAHEY

Bulkley Says He'd Be 'Delighted' To See Vic Run For Governor.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator Bulkley (D-Ohio) said today that while he would take no part in "engineering the nomination" he would be "very much delighted" to see Senator Donahey (D-Ohio) run for the Democratic nomination for governor of Ohio. He said he was impressed by the strength of the draft-Donahey-for-governor movement among the rank and file voters of the state. Donahey has not announced himself as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination.

CRASH KILLS BOY, 10

MIDDLETOWN — (AP) — Lawrence Clark, 10-year-old son of Mr and Mrs. Elmer Clark of Hazel Green, Ky., died here early today of injuries suffered in an automobile accident near here last night.

Expects To Give Jury Other Probe Records Monday

The special Richland county parole grand jury, reconvening Monday, will concentrate on records as they concern paroles, Assistant Attorney General George Hurley indicated as the panel finished its first week of investigation yesterday.

Hurley said he expected records the jury had subpoenaed from Columbus—findings in investigations of penal institutions conducted by Joseph N. Ackerman, Cleveland, and Frazier Reams, Toledo, would be available for study by Monday. Ackerman conducted his inquiry when he was state senator. Reams made his at the request of Governor Martin L. Davey in 1935. The grand jury has also subpoenaed records from the office of Welfare Director Margaret Allman.

Hurley said that in addition to studying the records, the grand jury would hear testimony from "key figures" at the reformatory. Although he gave no names, he indicated the key figures would be persons who handled parole records.

16 CONVICTED

Government Wins Anti-Trust Suit Against Oil Firms.

MADISON, Wis.—(AP)—A federal court jury today convicted 16 major oil companies and 30 of their officials on charges of conspiring to raise and fix midwestern gasoline prices during 1935 and 1936 in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

The verdict was read before Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone and the defendants

The jury, pondering the voluminous evidence that had been introduced during the 16 weeks of the momentous trial, deliberated about eight hours before reaching its decision.

The case involved one of the most important government anti-trust proceedings in many years It was the biggest action directed at the petroleum industry since the old Standard Oil trust was dissolved.

61 IN MILLION DOLLAR CLASS

Last Year's Figure 452 Less Than In 1929.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Sixty-one persons—the largest number in five years—paid taxes on net incomes of $1,000,000 or more last year, the treasury disclosed today.

One had an income between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 in 1936 (1937 taxes based on 1936 income) The names were not made public.

Although nearly double the 33 in the previous year, last year's million-dollar group compared with 513 in 1929. The smallest number was 20 in 1932.

OHIOANS SAFE IN CHINA

A BIT SOUPY, OLD FELLOW!

City Gets Taste Of Weather In 'Old Lunnon' As Heavy Fog Hangs On.

A bit of dear "Old Lunnon" came to Mansfield early this morning when a heavy fog settled over the city and gave little indication of leaving It really was a bit soupy, don't you know.

The London fog started to come in last night, over the southwest part of the city, and early this morning it was so heavy in the business district that approaching auto lights were barely distinguishable.

Coal smoke settled with the fog, making it heavy and "soupy" Even the colored neon signs looked dim and far away.

At 10 a. m. today the Ashland hill was still hidden behind the fog and could not be seen from the city

The weather forecast for the next 24 hours shows little change, and more fog may be expected. Cloudy tonight and Sunday, and probably light rains tonight, with little change in temperature, is the prediction.

The thermometer has hung around the same figures in the past 24 hours, fluctuating only seven degrees. From a low of 31 it moved up to a 38 high, with an average of 34 5.

CONFESSION TO BE READ JURY

Policeman To Be Called Again In Wright Murder Trial.

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— The version Paul Wright gave police of how he shot his wife and friend, John Kimmel, to death will provide his murder trial with its next dramatic high spot.

Lieut Albert Wickham of the Glendale police was on the stand when court adjourned for the week-end yesterday He will be cross-examined Monday by Jerry Giesler, defense attorney.

Wickham will relate the confession Wright made to him and other officers after the double slaying. At the defendant's preliminary hearing Wickham testified concerning the confession.

GOES ON AIR

Strength Waning, Collapse Of Fasting Dean Near.

MEMPHIS, Tenn — (UP) — Rev. Israel H. Noe, 21 days without food or water, rallied his waning strength today and prepared to jeopardize his chances for life by going to a Memphis radio station and making a 15-minute talk.

Physicians believed the physical collapse, which they consider inevitable, was not far away, but Noe pushed on with his fast in an attempt to prove the validity of his "world philosophy" — that a man who can do without food and live forever.

It has now been a year and 23 days since any solid food with the exception of the communion wafers, has passed Noe's lips. Throughout 1937 he lived on the juice and semi liquid pulp of oranges and gradually his flesh fell away until he now weighs less than 100 pounds

CIVIC LEADER DIES

Lutz In Gotham To See If Ohio Should Be In 1939 Fair

Representative Ralph C. Lutz, Lexington, was in New York today as a member of a special legislative committee of nine which will determine whether Ohio should participate in the 1939 World fair there.

Lutz, according to United Press dispatches, was one of three committee members named by Governor Martin L. Davey to represent him Also representing the governor are Representative Bishop Kilpatrick, Trumbull county, Democratic floor leader, and State Architect John P Schooley. Named from the senate were Senators Keith Lawrence, Democrat, Cuyahoga, Verner Metcalf, Republican, Washington county and James Mathews, Democrat, Clark county. The house sent Speaker Frank Uible, Democrat, Cuyahoga and Representatives Al Kalb, Democrat, Ottawa, and William McCullough, Republican, Miami.

FOG HALTS GAME

Creeps Through Gym Windows During Cage Contest.

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa —(UP) —The New Kensington-Arnold high school basketball game was called off last night on account of fog

In the third quarter, with New Kensington leading 22 to 18, the fog, sweeping into the New Kensington gymnasium through open windows, so obscured the floor that officials were forced to call a halt.

SHIP CRIPPLED

Greek Steamer Drifting After Damaging Steering Gear.

LONDON—(AP)—The Greek steamer Kalypso Vergotti sent a distress call from mid-Atlantic today, saying she was drifting and her steering gear was damaged

Later messages picked up by Lloyds said the German ship Ilsenstein and the American vessel Sun Dance were steaming to her aid.

Japan Admits More Money, Men Needed To Continue Conflict

TOKYO—(AP)—The Japanese government admitted today its need for more money and men to fight China, acknowledged the conflict would be a lengthy one, and laid down as one of its basic aims an economically linked China, Japan and Manchoukuo.

Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye outlined the economic objectives of the Far Eastern war, and with Foreign Minister Koki Hirota, Naval Minister Admiral Mitsumasa Yonia and War Minister General Sugiyama presented to the Japanese diet (parliament), a detailed account of the six and one-half months of conflict.

Their general conclusions were that China's Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek had refused to make peace, therefore a new and favorable China government was necessary; that an end to the undeclared was still was far distant, and that the army must increase greatly its strength in China.

Finance Minister Okinobu Kaya reported that, because of the war, it was necessary to raise vast amounts of money, partly by increased taxes and principally through bond issues.

The regular budget of 2,867,000,000 yen ($682,760,000) was to be supplemented with a special budget for war expenses. Kaya revealed. Anticipating a rise in commodity prices, he announced maximums would be fixed, and detailed plans for a managed economy.

The ministers expressed gratification for friendly understanding by the United States and Britain, permitting peaceful settlement of incidents like sinking of the American gunboat Panay.

Series to Explain Income Tax Filing

While the 1938 income tax blanks have been slightly "streamlined" to simplify them, the general rules applying to income tax returns are practically the same as last year.

With the date under which all taxable incomes must be filed less than two months away The News-Journal will publish a series of articles on the proper procedure in making out an income tax report. It is intended primarily to simplify the report for the individual with incomes $5,000 and under, and inform them of the exemptions to which they are entitled

The series will begin in Monday's issue.

First C. of C. Award For Civic Service Will Be Made Monday

The first annual award of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce for meritorious civic service will be made Monday night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel at the chamber's annual meeting, Paul W. Williams, secretary-manager, announced today.

The C of C. announced the award last year, and a secret committee has gone over the candidates for the honor The committee has made its selection, Williams said, but the identity of the recipient of the honor for 1937 will not be disclosed until the presentation is made Monday night, by C. H Henkel, who was president of the C of C in 1927

The award will be plaque, inscribed to the effect that the recipient had performed what was considered the outstanding job of civic service of the year.

In addition to witnessing the presentation of the award, Chamber of Commerce members and guests will hear Dr James Shelby Thomas, president of the Chrysler Institute of Engineering, an authority on business and economics, and one of the earliest advocates of decentralization of industry President of Clarkson college of Technology, Clarkson, Va., he is on leave of absence from that post at present His subject Monday will be "New Frontiers For Smart People."

A number of prominent Chamber of Commerce officials from other cities will attend the meeting. The list will include George B Chandler executive secretary of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, Alexander Thompson, president of the Ohio Chamber

DELTA THETA CHAPTER HOSTESS TO 150 GIRLS

Delegates From Four States Here for First Province Convention In Mansfield; Conduct Business Session This Afternoon.

WITH an expected total registration of approximately 150 delegates from four states—Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana and Michigan—the first province convention ever to be held in Mansfield was opened at 10 o'clock this morning. Delta Theta chapter will be hostess for the rest of today and Sunday to the delegates to the Delta Theta Tau convention which is making the Mansfield-Leland hotel its headquarters.

Jamming a variety of gay social affairs into the already filled program of the convention of the philanthropic and social sorority, the week-end will begin with a vanity dance tonight at the hotel.

The business session opened at 1 o'clock at which time projects of the organization were discussed and reports on philanthropic work were made.

Gaiety will predominate this evening as Toastmistress Betty Gustin gets the formal dinner under way. Smart favors and unusual decorations have been promised by members of the committee headed by Mrs. Ernest Geiger.

Following the dinner will be a dance in the ballroom at which 200 couples are expected. Tomorrow morning the visiting delegates and Mansfield members of Delta Theta Tau will be entertained at a "progress" breakfast which marks the final session of the convention.

Toastmistress for the breakfast is Miss Mildred Angle. Miss Esther Dunham is general chairman for arrangements and has had complete charge of scheduling the events to occupy the business and social events on the convention calendar.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 22, 1938.

Drive carefully tomorrow—and start in plenty of time, so you won't have to speed.

There's no reason for not trying to make "the best country in the world" even better.

Advice to Ambitious Young Men: So live that when you're proposed for a public job, nobody'll have anything on you.

Too Many Peace Plans.

THERE is practical sense in the proposed peace study program of the League of Women Voters. Mrs. Louise Leonard Wright, chairman of that organization's department of government and foreign policy, calls attention to the gap between theory and practice in foreign affairs. There is a lag, she says, between the political leaders who are responsible for the conduct of foreign affairs and the public's willingness to support them in their pursuit of peace.

That lag comes from a lack of understanding, which the league hopes to correct by a national study of the subject. It ought to do a great deal of good.

The whole country is pretty well agreed that it wants continued peace. But once that is admitted, the country breaks up into innumerable advocates of this and that and the other method of preserving it. In the midst of much futile discussion, they forget that peace is complex and must be approached by more than one route. The problems of armament, defense, security, justice, trade, and so on are all parts of the whole world peace problem.

The only cure for war that looks at all hopeful to the realistic pacifist is recognition of the causes of war, which are mostly economic and a world willingness to change them.

Earlier County Fair.

AN EXPERIMENT that will be watched with interest centers around the decision to advance the 1938 Richland county fair to three days in late July, instead of holding the fair in late August or early September, as has been the custom heretofore.

While the earlier date will probably result in a better racing program it will also remove the possibility of showing exhibits of the season's farm products, around which county fair interest largely centered for many years.

There has been a question, for a number of years, as to whether an annual county fair serves rural and urban needs to the extent that it once did, and whether there is justification for continued expenditure of public funds to bear a part of the cost and meet deficits.

Unless it can be shown that the Richland county fair serves to stimulate agriculture in this county and to provide forms of entertainment that attract interest and patronage sufficient to meet operating costs, it would appear that the institution may be regarded as having outlived its period of usefulness to this community.

Good Town for Young Folk.

CONTRARY to many recent statements that there are more young criminals than any other group, Tacoma, Wash., finds it has fewer. Youthful crime there, the head of the police juvenile division says, "has been distinctly on the wane for the past three years."

There are reasons. Chief among them, says the officer, is the work of the local CCC camps, which took idle young fellows off the street corners and out of the indoor loafing places. Playgrounds, clubs and interested individuals have all helped to provide proper recreation and occupation for both boys and girls.

The story has a moral for other communities, particularly where there is much juvenile delinquency and crime. It also has a moral for parents.

Who Cares About House Numbers!

RECOMMENDATION by City Engineer W. C. Statler that Mansfield's system of house-numbering be corrected provides an example of the slow motion of civic projects toward eventual accomplishment.

Mansfield has had difficulty for years with house numbers in residential sections, due to expansion of the city without adoption of any particular system of numbering houses.

The result has been a sad mix-up, confusing to citizens and visitors alike.

This has not been a matter, however, in which any considerable public interest is shown—the idea appearing to be that each resident knows where he lives and that the number on the house, if any, doesn't make any particular difference.

If the future may be judged by the past there will continue to be a recommendation each year along the same line—and nothing will be done about it.

Unfortunate Heroes.

FOOTBALL is a great thing for the colleges, says President Ralph C. Hutchison of Washington and Jefferson college, in Pennsylvania. It is the student body's "emotional center of integration." Emotion is very important, and so is unity. So the college owes a big debt to its football men.

But for the players themselves he is sorry. They are the victims of unselfish service. They become physically overdeveloped. They are often seriously injured. They give their strength and time freely for the college and are mentally stunted in the process. Though rated as heroes, Dr. Hutchison considers them the chief victims of college life.

The evil of football, he explains, is that the wrong fellows play it. The team members don't need it. It's the spindle-skanked, flat-chested boys on the bleachers who ought to be playing and developing their bodies, he thinks.

Some folks are still asking: "What are the people of this country coming to?"—while others prefer to substitute "When" for "What."

Considering that it has taken 5,000 years to reach this stage of civilization, maybe too much is expected of four years.

Atlantic City reports the theft of 40 city-owned buildings—indicating both first- and second-story workers.

By the way, what ever became of that Tammany haul, of which so much was being said a few years ago?

McIntyre's New York Day by Day

WHAT a vast storehouse the human mind is for inconsequentials. Tucked away dormant for a score of years, and more trivial incidents will bob to the surface at the most unexpected moments! Jopplety memories that one has no particular reason to recall. Why?

The French with characteristic shrug call it; Je ne sais quoi—I know not what. There is a beer concert hall girl I once saw crying in the old Atlantic Garden in Cincinnati. That was all there was to it—a girl crying in a concert hall. Yet I can't number the times it comes to mind.

Then a 25-cent dinner Joel Powhattan Glass, Harry Salsinger, the late Brown Holmes and I were partaking after the final edition of a Dayton, O. paper on which we were co-serfs. The menu included a raisin pie. Nothing particular happened, yet I often think of that meal.

And the pair of bright golden-hair twins who got into the day coach in which my father and I were traveling to St. Joseph, Mo. years ago. Maids in ginghams and high buttoned shoes with the steel buttoners latticed down the side. So often I wonder what life has done for them.

My idea of perpetual youth is George Armsby, the New York-California banker. He is easily on the thither side of 50 but has the vim and bound of a collegiate. Although far from the simperer, he has a smile that warms and one feels he means it. There is a distinct impression he is enjoying life to the hilt. And after so many sour-pusses he is stimulating. A Scotch biological inheritance I suppose has marked me with a dourness. Anyway, I rather like the glad folk.

Don't misunderstand. I could wring the neck of the chronic twitterer. Those flibbergibbets whose tongues never stop wagging. Yet how often the female of that species attracts the solid, dependable type of husband. Silent fellows who seem actually to enjoy the flutter of their mates. Gracie Allen is not such a monstrous exaggeration of the particular type.

John Perona, doyen of the El Morrocco tribe, sent me a tie the other day designed in Paris to carry out the effect of close-tufted zebra stripes that form the decor of his night club — a dazzingly beautiful creation in crepe. I made tracks to my haberdasher in six shakes of the sheep tail to find out if he could procure enough of the material for a shirt. He thought he could and I asked for an estimate, and getting it dropped the whole thing like a hot poker. Instead, I arranged to have M. Perona's tie put under glass for the mantle in the front parlor.

I like to watch the wine waiter of experience in any class place. Few in the ranks of such servitude get more real enjoyment out of their jobs. If a patron knows his wines and has an appreciation thereof the sommelier is at once his friend and counsellor. He will discuss the merits of this vintage and that at length and with great earnestness and how he delights in the initial preparation for service! Chilling the glasses with shaved ice. Twirling the bottle in the silver bucket to get the proper temperature, displaying the label with a gesture of affection, wrapping the napkins carefully around the bottle neck for pouring. And that most superb gesture of all—extracting the cork and holding it to the nose for a few ecstatic sniffs. It is a magnificent ritual and one the gallop of American life should not trample.

The gentleman flirting lightly and expertly wins a swirl of my cape. The few times I have attempted coquetry have resulted in panic confusion with blushes—tripping over my feet or turning to retreat and crashing into a post. Yet I have friends who can with a sly Jack Buchanon wink or come hither glance be talking easily to a perfectly beautiful and strange lady in no time at all.

Flirtation has its most perfect setting aboard ship. Every man or woman, married or single, should be permitted light flirtations on high seas. To talk without ceremony to a deck chair neighbor, to promenade or have tea. The moment one goes up the gang-plank the usual domestic conventionalities should go overboard.

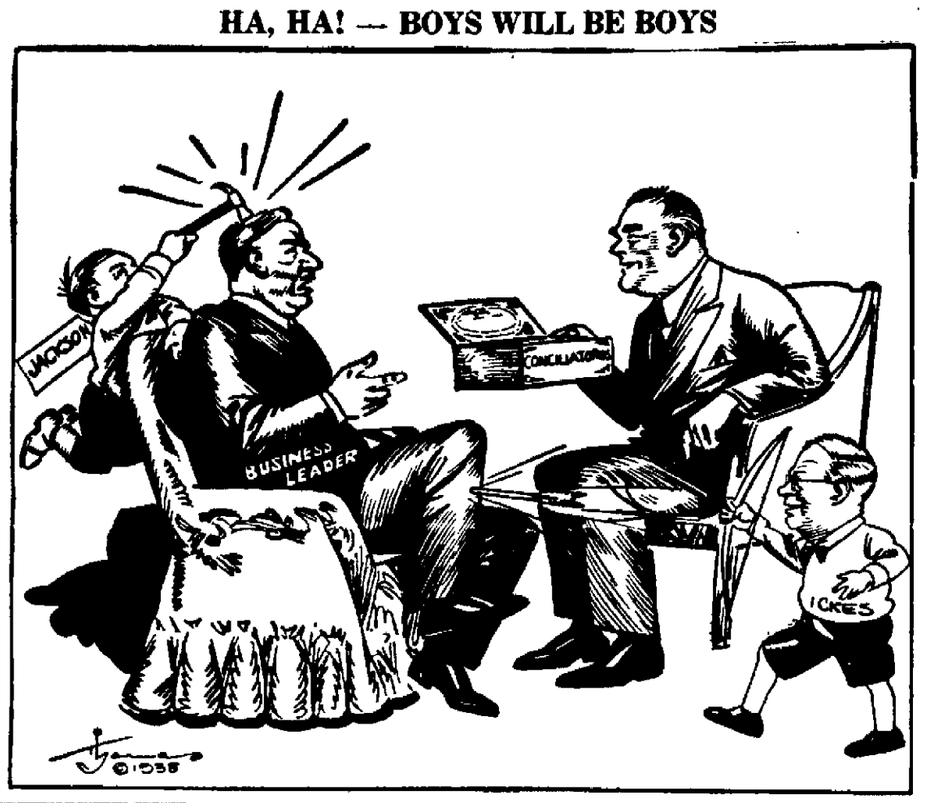
HA, HA! — BOYS WILL BE BOYS



No Upturn Expected Within Next Six Months

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — The extreme probability is that business will remain about as it is now for some six months to come. This is the consensus of some very shrewd observers here, men expert both on business and on politics, and fairly close in touch with the New Deal. It is interesting that almost without exception these experts predict a slight upturn at the end of this six-months period.

Boiled down, their argument is something like this. Existing business of course will strain every nerve to make a profit from week to week. Not many business men will undertake anything new, except that which can be undertaken without much risk, but nobody is just going to fold his hands and wait until the bad days pass. That just isn't human nature.

None of the underlying conditions are bad. There is no one of the many contributing factors that made the pinch so bad beginning in 1929. By the same token there is nothing particularly encouraging, nothing to cause folks to borrow, beg or steal a stake to get in on the big game.

* * *

NOTHING in particular has changed about the situation but two developments are important as seeming to guarantee a continuance at about the present level. One of these is that the big inventories are being rapidly used up.

To use a personal illustration, the shirts that John Smith bought six months ago, because he thought prices were going sky high, are gradually being worn out by the laundries. Pretty soon he will have to buy more shirts. He won't buy a lot, as he did nine and six months ago, because now he has no expectancy that he has to beat the wire in order to avoid paying more.

But he will begin buying, pretty soon, in the normal way—as he would if there were no rumors of price advances, and no expectancy of a sharp price decline. This last was his mental attitude a month ago.

Mrs. John Smith will buy more dresses, more shoes for the children, more of all sorts of things, even draperies, in the next few months, as a result of cheaper meat prices. She can squeeze more out of the household money. This may not be so hot for the farmers, or even the packers, but it helps business generally, especially as very few husbands contract or expand the household allowance in strict conformity with the fluctuations of food prices. Especially when the prices go down. Sometimes they don't even hear about that.

* * *

CORPORATION earnings are off, will continue to stay off for some time to come, but there is always a liberal sprinkling of companies which do pretty well even in hard times. The senate is determined to change the taxes on corporations so as to make it more attractive for them to plough more earnings back in improvements. That is one phase of the tax problem which is very easy for nearly all the legislators to understand. Also it is something they can defend back home, both on the stump and in talking with their constituents.

And labor leaders are sitting in on these White House conferences! They want done whatever will result in the most employment. They want the business wheels turning. It is much simpler to get higher pay and shorter hours when the bosses are making money. And it is easier to justify the union dues. And easier to renew expiring wage agreements on more favorable terms.

So everything points to a rocking along on the present level. No boom—there is an ingredient missing for that. A boom comes when everybody is trying to get aboard to make money, starting new things, crazy with optimism. That is some time off.

Listen, World!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

Is Tolerance a Vice?

SHOULD we be charitable toward sinners?

Should we try to understand how they got that way and do our best to relieve them from the unpleasant consequence of their folly?

A gentleman who signs himself "For Righteousness" says it is, and we shouldn't. Which wouldn't be so remarkable if I didn't get scores of other letters saying the same thing. So maybe there's something to it.

"People need punishment," he starts, "or they never learn sense.

"Tolerance is the sign of a lazy conscience. We make it easy for others because we want to take it easy ourselves."

(Somebody please page Buddha, Confucius, Epictetus, Jesus of Nazareth, Socrates, and other benevolent philosophers. They had it all wrong about helping that under dog.)

"We should," he snarls, "decide once for all just what is right and what is wrong. We should choose definite standards for ourselves. And then we should stick by those standards and demand that others stick by them or pay the penalty. There should be no exceptions, even though the culprit be the one we love best on earth."

(What a cozy little domestic comedy you'd make, stranger.)

"The Puritans may have made a few mistakes, but in the main they were right. There can be no compromise with evil. If a man sins, let him pay the price. Doubtless many will say that I should not condemn because I am not perfect myself. But that has nothing to do with it. If I am unfortunate enough to err, I should hate error all the more and prove it by fighting it in my fellow man."

(Boy! With arguments like that you're wasted on us simple homo folk. You and Mussolini and maybe a few deposed czars and kaisers and sultans, ought to get together.)

"The world is going to the dogs because we no longer have any fixed standards. No matter what a man does, we find some excuse for him. We blame it on his early training, bad environment or the social system. If his act is too abominable, we send for an alienist, and have him declared insane. The time has come to call a halt to such tolerance and substitute good, old fashioned severity."

That's his story. And you can bet he'll stick to it.

Which side do I take? I don't take any. I dasn't! For I have my own reasons for wanting all the tolerance there is. I'm one of those unfortunate humans whose lives are just chuck full of the painful consequences of folly.

Would I like to have those consequences sweet-kissed away? Would I like to hang them on someone's neck?

BRING ON YOUR KISSES AND SHOW ME THE NECK!

Which explains why I vote for tolerance and am downright chummy with sinners. But, of course, that may be all wrong. Maybe tolerance IS a blight. Maybe we should lambast the beam in our brother's eye, regardless of the mote in our own—

And not only heave the first stone but hire a quarry for emergencies—

If so, here's your chance to say so. Don't mind me. I'm not proud.

Timely Editorial

Fords Popular Support.

Henry Ford has a big jury deciding in his favor in the dispute between the Ford Motor Co., and the United Automobile Workers Union. It is composed of a great majority of the American people. Results of a survey conducted by the American Institute of Public Opinion, reported elsewhere in The News today, reveal that all population groups polled, except unskilled workers and persons on relief, side with Ford in his objection to a CIO compaign to unionize his employes.

Ford evidently is cashing in on the popularity won when some years ago he voluntarily doubled the prevailing wage of his workers and explained that it would be the continuous policy of his company to pay the highest possible wages.

And now, when Mr. Ford again is attacked and this time must defend himself in court against charges that he violated the Wagner Act, he finds backing of substantial character.—Detroit News.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Thumbs Down!"

"Thumbs up!"

"Thumbs down!"

One word is different; but to the ancient Roman gladiator, prostrated by an antagonist who stood over him with uplifted weapon, and staring with desperate hope at the Emperor or the spectators for the fateful signal, it spelled sentence of death—or pronouncement of release at the hands of his adversary.

Authorities differ on the question of whether "Thumbs up!" meant approval and "Thumbs down!" disapproval—or vice versa: the former interpretation, however, is generally presumed to be correct.

So, "Thumbs down!" has survived through the centuries with the significance of disappointment and defeat as the mede of him at whom the stubby digit is figuratively or otherwise pointed.

The thumb symbolized the short Roman sword. So "Thumbs up!" from the Emperor or the populace, commanded "Take it away!" And "Thumbs down!" ordered "Let 'er go!"

What One Man Thinks

—By DAVID GIBSON

Our opinion of others are the mirrors reflecting ourselves.

Olga Fayette.

IT WAS not even her stage name, but Olga Fayette will serve for this sketch.

I first knew her in her early 20's—as a fellow-patron of "Pop" June's restaurant, Indianapolis, where lake and sea fish were served, where they knew how to hang meat so that steaks and chops were easy eatin' even for dental cripples—a bit of old lower New York transplanted to the central west—it still exists in its best tradition.

At that time she was head trimmer and principal sales person in Bertha Samuels' millinery store right next door to "Pop" June's.

Very tall—almost a spear-like figure—large blue eyes, corpse-like white skin, a large nose, determined mouth and chin, black hair parted in the middle brushed tight to her head and gathered in the form of a bun at the back of her neck, dressed in black garments with flowing lines and talked in a rich, low contralto voice.

Millinery in those days, was something of an art and craft—women's hats suggested flower beds and bird collections, even embellished now and again with crumpled cow horns; and Olga, with her exotic taste, soon attracted carriage trade to Bertha Samuels' establishment.

Olga used to sit at a rear table of "Pop" June's restaurant, a book propped in front of her—Thomas Hardy's "Jude, the Obscure," Harold Frederic's "The Damnation of Theron Ware" and Frank Norris' "McTeague"—literary realism that had just then been published.

The patronage of this restaurant included the more prosperous of local newspaper writers of that day—Edwin C. Hill, now of radio reputation, Robley D. Stevenson, Horace Lancaster, Kin Hubbard, F. Tarkington Baker, William Herschell and even an occasional book author in the way of James Whitcomb Riley, Booth Tarkington and Meredith Nicholson.

For many years George June had been on the managerial side of high classed theatrical productions and had just then returned to Indianapolis to assume the management of the restaurant at the passing of his father, "Pop" June; this attracted a good class of theatrical patronage, which pleased Olga.

While June's was really a man's restaurant, yet I never saw Olga evince any interest in any one man so far as love and affection was concerned, but always one of a group and thoroughly good table company.

One day, a dear little female dog of no particular breed drifted into the restaurant. She wiggled her little body, wagged her tail and grinned—in spite of the fact that she was very hungry and cold.

She was fed to fill, warmed and for years remained a part of the good-will and fixtures of the institution—a patron's pet. She spent a good deal of time visiting in the work room of Bertha Samuels' millinery store, and George June named her Trimmer.

Trimmer always set next to Olga in a chair as she ate her meals and who petted and talked to her between bites and her book reading.

Olga had long been a voice pupil of Alexander Ernestinoff, the discoverer and teacher of Madame Cahier, the late Orville Harold and other operatic stars of that day, but he wisely confined Olga's training to her natural limitations, her ambition to where she could best capitalize her unique personality—which was stage entertainment.

The Elks gave a benefit in the largest local theater, the program made up largely of professional acts, but Olga was given a place of advantage on the bill.

She opened with rag-time songs, "Kentucky Babe, "Alabama Coon" and the like in a rich, low, well-trained contralto—almost modern "torch" singing. She followed this with a line of chatter in the form of a monologue and closed with a recital of Robley D. Stevenson's parody on James Whitcomb Riley's "When the Frost Is on the Pumpkin and the Fodder's in the Shock"—"When the Booze Is in the Bottle an' the Bottle's on the Bar," and all to a subdued piano accompaniment. The last lines of the parody ran:

"And indulge in gentle dreaming of the happy days to come,
When the world shall be one bar-room and the rivers run with rum;
Just to call down golden visions from the heaven-heights afar,
When the booze is in the bottle an' the bottle's on the bar."

Her act topped the performance all right, and Tommy O'Malley, who kept the saloon next the theater entrance, said that during the intermission, right after Olga's act, his place was jammed, all drinking like salted cattle and quoting these thirst-creating lines.

At that time, Tom Nawn, an old trouper around the vaudeville circuits, had a series of one-act sketches based on Irish fairy tales, and through George June's suggestion, Tom made a place for Olga in his company and trained her to the improvement of her act.

Olga's first professional solo appearance was in the old Hammerstein Music Hall, New York, later covering the subway circuit around Manhattan Island and finally as a headliner through the west, but she did not appear in Indianapolis until five years later.

In the meantime, the advertising value of attracting attention to herself had become an instinct—even to personal conspicuousness, an exhibitionist off stage.

Her entrance into the Hoosier Capital one Monday morning for a week's engagement was in the nature of a grand, triumphal, solo parade. She emerged from a sleeper, sent all her hand baggage to the hotel by cab and walked up Illinois street, a principal business thoroughfare—spear-like figure, corpse-like complexion, clad entirely in white satin with a peacock feather-boa about her neck—two inches taller when she stepped forward on her shoe-soles than when she reposed on her heels, while a huge ostrich-feather on her hat bobbed up and down.

Olga neither looked to the right nor left. Following her by 12 paces was a thoroughly subdued little man—her piano-accompanist-secretary—carrying a large, white, struggling, growling, snapping poodle, and Olga addressing her piano-accompanist-secretary as "Say" in giving instructions for managing the dog.

Men took one look and exhaled their breath with loud gasps, women gave subdued hisses, and, it being before the days of many automobiles, horses stood still, looked, extended their ears and stepped over their traces, shafts or tongues.

Olga stopped in "Pop" June's restaurant along the way, ordering "Say" to stay outside—Koko, her own dog, might make Trimmer jealous. Trimmer was asleep in a chair as Olga entered. She awakened, took one look and speeded for the kitchen, but another look and she hesitated to the recognition of her old friend. She wiggled her little body, wagged her tail rapidly, grinned and gave little barks and yelps of delight—a waiter covered Olga's white satin ensemble with a clean tablecloth so that she could cuddle Trimmer.

During the week of her home town engagement Olga ate all her meals at June's, at the old accustomed place with Trimmer at her side, while Koko remained in the baggage room of her hotel. She was her old self, in plain attire, after the curtain had gone down, the theater lights out and everybody had gone home—except that in her reading she had graduated to the plays of Ibsen and G. B. S.

GALION BOARD HEARS REPORTS ON HOSPITAL

Institution Ends Year With Surplus; 2 Trustees Named To 3-Year Term.

GALION — According to reports given Friday night at the annual meeting of Good Samaritan Hospital association held at the public library, the hospital closed its year with a small surplus, enough that it was not in the "red." Reports given by the treasurer, Mrs. C. F. Unckrich, and the business manager, Mrs. Jud V. Dye, showed more than ordinary progress made by the hospital during the past year.

Trustees Elected.

In the absence of the president, E. P. Monroe, the meeting was in charge of C. W. Tracht. Two trustees, Mrs. Harvey Huy and Mrs. C. F. Unckrich, whose terms had expired, were reelected for a term of three years. Others on the board are E. P. Monroe, R. S. Booth, C. W. Tracht, O. E. Hill, Mrs. C. S. Kirk, Mrs. Dye, and G. M. Badgley, president of city council who, by his office, automatically becomes a member of the board. Organization will be held later that month at the call of the president.

Mrs. Dye's report showed that for 1937 there were 2,146 patient days, an increase of 100 over the revious year; 463 patients were treated; there were 91 births and 35 deaths. Reports showed that the present hospital staff is of the best that can be secured. All of the staff are graduates of the Lucas County hospital, Toledo, and are all registered nurses. Besides Naomi Weber as superintendent, the others are Katherine Schmitzler, Violet Jurk and Doris Coleman.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the hospital board has relieved the board of much expense. The linen supply, woolen blankets, and new dishes for the nurses' dining room, are among the many supplies provided by the auxiliary during the past year. Four new bedside tables now ordered by the auxiliary, will bring all hospital equipment up to standard.

The board has purchased a new cabinet type suction machine, and new furniture for the hospital.

ISSUE WARNING

Ashland Officers Tell About Farm Stove Racket.

ASHLAND—Residents in the rural sections of Ashland county were being asked to be on the lookout for a pair of racketeers posing as stove repair men, who did work on stoves, and then charged exorbitant prices on the pretext that they were sent by stove companies, law enforcement officials said here.

It was reported that the pair have visited many homes, especially where elderly women reside, telling them that they were sent by stove companies, then work on the stoves, and charge unreasonable prices. The operations have been reported as being mostly in the northern part of the county.

In reported instances, the men gained entrance into homes, and assessed one woman $27 and supper, and in another home asked $3, it was said.

A Farmer's Diary

January 21.

WEATHER as warm as early spring. All day the fog hung heavy over fields and woods. At ten, today, it was as dark as late afternoon. Houses and woodlands a short distance away were indistinct blurs. On the highway, the fog blew in dense sheets in a gentle wind just ahead of the car.

The trees and shrubs stood drenched, with large drops on the lower projections of each branch. The jays screamed loudly from the woods top. The moping crows flew warily here and there without even a sound.

The sweet smell of the molding weeds and leaves inspires hope and dreams of the coming spring. What wonders lie burled underneath that turf! Part of me, part of you, part of countless thousands like us.

ESTHER FIKE, WILLIAM E. COLE WED AT CRESTLINE PARSONAGE

CRESTLINE—In a quiet wedding ceremony performed Thursday evening at 6 o'clock at the parsonage of Calvary Reformed church, Miss Esther Feik became the bride of William E. Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Cole of northwest of Crestline.

Attending the couple were the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Frank of Shelby.

Rev. W. L. Margard officiated, using the single ring ceremony.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Feik of northeast of town, was becomingly attired for her wedding in a street length gown of aquamarine blue alpaca crepe, with which she wore a brown hat with short veil and other accessories of brown. Her shoulder corsage was of sunburst roses.

Her attendant wore a navy blue crepe frock with black hat and black accessories.

The bride graduated from Crestline high school and also attended Fairview hospital in Cleveland. For the past four and one half years she has done extra general duty at Emergency hospital and private nursing cases.

The groom graduated from Leesville schools. He is a farmer by occupation and they have already taken up their residence on the home farm of the bride's parents, who are retiring from active duty of farming.

Immediately following the wedding ceremony the bridal party went to the home of the bride's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey E. Poffenbaugh, 23 Vennum avenue, Mansfield, where a wedding dinner was served.

* * *

Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, Miss Rita A. Betzger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon F. Metzger, of north of Crestline became the bride of Ferris F. Smith of Akron, son of Ivan Smith of North Seltzer street.

The double ring ceremony was performed at Sacred Heart of Jesus church in Shelby Settlement with the pastor, Rev. F. N. T. Bouschere officiating at the nuptial high mass.

Nuptial music was furnished by the church choir.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was preceded down the church aisle by her niece, little Mary Therese Stine, flower girl who carried a basket of roses.

Miss Bernadette Metzger was her sister's maid of honor and Paul Fisher, of this city, brother-in-law of the bride, was best man.

The bride wore a becoming gown of rose beige lace over the same color satin slip. It had short puff sleeves, V neck and a bolero jacket. Her hat of the same color had a shoulder length veil. She carried an arm bouquet of gardenias.

Her attendant had a gown made similar to that of the bride's, in a bright blue lace. Her matching hat had a short nose veil and her flowers were American Beauty roses.

A colonial style silk crepe frock trimmed in blue with a blue sash was worn by the little flower girl.

Ushers were Vincent Metzger, brother of the bride and Myron Smith, brother of the groom.

A wedding breakfast was served to 40 relatives of the couple at noon at the home of the bride's parents. A color scheme of pink and white was used in the table appointments. Pink tapers and a wedding cake bearing miniature bride and groom decorated the table.

In the evening a wedding reception for about 150 relatives and friends will be held in the local Eagles hall.

The bride attended the Shelby Settlement school and graduated from Crestline high school. She resigned her position with the Metal Produce company in Shelby in December in view of her approaching marriage. The groom graduated from Bucyrus high school. He has been employed as a carpenter at Akron where they will reside, going to that city on Sunday.

PRESENT COMEDY

ASHLAND—A one act comedy "Tip and Run" was presented Thursday evening at the regular meeting of the Ashland College Footlighters club. The meeting was held in the Little Theater.

The comedy, produced by the play production class of Miss Thelma Slack, had a complicated plot in which a bridesmaid, Doris Doggett of Savannah, bribes the dressmaker, Lois Wendt of Mansfield, to make her dress prettier than the bride's. She does this to win the attention of the best man, James Steed of Ashland.

SUES FOR $1,000

ASHLAND—Action to recover $1,060 for personal injuries and property damages has been filed in common pleas court here by Anna Wagner Fisher against Harold Bowser.

In her petition, the plaintiff claims that while riding with her husband, they came to a stop at the intersection of routes 30 and 60 in Hayesville, to wait for the traffic light to turn.

While waiting, it is claimed, the defendant ran into the rear of their car, causing personal injuries and property damages to the amount named. Carelessness and negligence is charged.

BUCYRUS—Admonishing them from law breaking in the future, Judge C. U. Ahl placed five Sulphur Springs youths on probation following hearings in his court on charges of stealing auto accessories in the Sulphur Springs vicinity last week. Names of the youths, who have never been in court previously, were not disclosed by the court.

WOMEN'S CLUB MEETS

SHELBY — The Shelby's Women's club will meet at the home of Mrs. B. B. Brown, Boulevard, at 7:30 p. m. Monday. Two papers will be given: "The Story of Our National Ballads," by Mrs. David Kelly and "The Negro and His Songs," by Zoravda Sheets.

POSTPONE POLICE MEETING

SHELBY—Due to the absence of Mayor D. B. Young, the meeting of Shelby police officers was indefinitely postponed last night by Police Chief Leroy Coffey. The meeting probably will be held next week.

RITES SET FOR GALION YOUTH

Lloyd Edwin Hanna, 15, Dead After Operation; Funeral To Be Held Monday.

GALION—Lloyd Edwin Hanna, 15, only son of Francis E. and Caroline (Stultz) Hanna of 217 Grove avenue, died Friday at Good Samaritan hospital. He was admitted to the hospital Thursday night for an operation after his appendix had been ruptured. He had been ill since Monday night.

He was born Nov. 25, 1922, in Magnetic Springs, Ohio, and came to Galion with his parents when he was three months old. He had lived here since then, and was a member of the Peace Lutheran church, the Luther League, and the Boy Scout troop at the church.

He is survived only by his parents of Galion, his grandfather, Phil Stultz of Richwood, and grandmother, Mrs. May Drake of Magnetic Springs. He was a member of the 9th grade at the Junior high school building.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. at the Peace Lutheran church. Rev. P. E. Auer, pastor of the church, will officiate. Plans for interment were being completed today. Friends may call at the Snyder funeral home.

W. H. COVER DIES AT CRESTLINE

Rites For Richland County Native To Be Held Sunday At Reformed Church.

CRESTLINE—William H. Cover, 67, died Friday morning at 9 o'clock at his home at 505 West Main street after several weeks illness of heart trouble.

He was born in Richland county, January 17, 1871 and was the beth Galuer Cover. He married Miss Elizabeth Waldbauer, of west of Crestline on January 7, 1895.

He was formerly employed as an air brake foreman for the Pennsylvania Railway company.

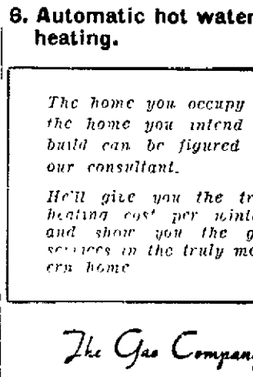
Funeral services will be held Sunday at 3 p. m. at Calvary Reformed church with the pastor, Rev. W. L. Margard officiating.

Burial will be made in Greenlawn cemetery. The deceased was a member of F. and A. M. lodge and of the Brotherhood class of the Reformed church and a former elder of the church.



The Old And The New!

The two illustrations above, one of an old-fashioned room, and the same room modernized, depicts the difference between old-fashioned heating methods and the modern way—

Gas.

So, if you plan to build or remodel this spring, be sure to include Gas—for gas gives you these advantages

1. Adequate gas service
2. Gas refrigeration
3. Step-saving kitchen
4. Labor-saving laundry
5. Winter air conditioning
6. Automatic hot water heating.

The home you occupy or the home you intend to build can be figured by our consultant.

He'll give you the true heating cost per winter, and show you the gas services in the truly modern home

Tygers Bow to Glenville, Invade Mt. Vernon Tonight

ADDS THREE TO LINEUP

Canzoi Team Signs De Haven, Gottfried and Supon for City Loop Games.

The Ira D. Ling Canzoi Oils will present a strengthened line-up Monday night when they meet the Westinghouse Electrics in one of the two games on the City Class A schedule at Mansfield high school

Fred Buzard announced today that he has signed Bob De Haven, Gottfried and Supon, and they will make their debut Monday when the Oilmen seek their second league triumph of the campaign.

De Haven, Simpson junior high school coach, is a former Miami university star. Gottfried is an erstwhile Findlay college performer and Supon is an ex-Crestline high school star.

Buzard believes the new additions will strengthen the Oils sufficiently to make them factors in the second round of the league which goes into the second night Monday.

The Westies, who defeated the Mack Pure Oils this week, are tied with the Yuncker Sports for first place. The Sports tackle the Pure Oils, who have yet to win their first game, in the initial game at 7:30 p. m. on Monday's program.

Murphymen Unable To Find Hoop As They Drop Second in Row, 28-21.

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor

FAILING to show any improvement over the erratic form they displayed in Sandusky earlier this week, the Tygers of Mansfield high school suffered their second straight defeat on the home linoleum last night as they bowed to Cleveland Glenville by a 28 to 21 count before a fair-sized crowd.

The Tygers were not only unable to dent the mesh, but their floor work was sloppy, particularly their passing. They did saunter into the basket for set-up shots on a number of occasions but they found it virtually impossible to push the inflated leather into the hoop.

Grief Not Over

The end of what has been a disappointing week for the Tygers so far may not be over yet either. Mansfield returns to action again tonight at Mt. Vernon where it tackles Merle Precht's Yellow Jackets and victory prospects do not loom any too bright for Coach Russ Murphy's men.

It was doubtful today whether Johnny Hallabrin, one of the mainstays of the club, would be able to play tonight. He suffered an ankle injury late in the third period, and it was necessary to remove him from the game. Hallabrin returned to the lineup late in the fourth quarter, as the Tygers made a desperate attempt to overtake the visitors, but it was noticeable that he was handicapped by the injury.

It can't be denied that the Tygers faced a pretty good ball club in Glenville but they might have won had they found the basket more regularly.

The Tygers compiled their poorest average of the season. They sunk only five out of 62 shots while the visitors caged 10 of their 39 attempts.

Hold Lead Once.

Murphy's athletes never held the lead after the first couple of minutes of play when they were in front by a 2-1 margin. They trailed 6-2 at the end of the first period, 14-7 at the intermission and 21-16 going into the final chapter.

The nearest Mansfield came to knotting the count after the early minutes of the second period was late in the third frame. Hallabrin led a rally which enabled the Men of Murphy to climb within four points of the Glenville total.

Mansfield never again threatened seriously to overtake the invaders who immediately lengthened their margin. The Tygers trailed by 10 points with only three minutes to go.

A pair of free throws by Elmer Dials, another by Jack Lyons and a bucket by Jack Dugger reduced the Glenville advantage to five points late in the imbroglio but Jacobs added two more points on a basket in the last minute to widen the advantage.

Score on Basket.

The hitless Tygers rallied only one basket in the first half. Dugger accounted for the bucket after a couple of minutes of play in the second period.

The Murphymen showed signs of staging a comeback in the third quarter after the frightful first half but they faltered when it appeared that they were at last on their way.

Wieder and Jacobs divided 16 of the 28 Glenville points to play prominent roles in the defeat of Mansfield. Capt. Karp a mid-season graduate who was playing the last game of his scholastic career also stood out for the visitors.

Hallabrin was the only Tyger who showed any of his usual consistency. The injured guard again led the Mansfield outfit in scoring with six points.

Preserves Win Pair.

The Mansfield reserves teams were more fortunate than the varsity. The No. 1 reserves turned back Lucas of the Richland county league 31 to 23 and the No. 2 reserves walloped a First Presbyterian club 39 to 9.

Trailing 11-4 in the first period the No. 1 reserves came back in the second quarter to obtain a 19-13 advantage at the intermission. The junior Tygers were in front the rest of the way as they limited the usually high scoring Grombch to seven points. Bob Crawford counted 12 points for the county team.

Doroh was high with a dozen for the reserves while Sneeringer contributed eight points.

Moyl hung up 16 points and Bush accounted for 12 as the No. 2 reserves poured the church team, which was still scoreless in the first period. The score at the half was 22 to 2.

The Tygers will [illegible] high school at 7:30 p. m. for the Mt. Vernon tilt.

STOUT-HEARTED BRADDOCK TRIUMPHS OVER FARR IN SLOW, ORDINARY BOUT

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK—(AP)—Jim Braddock's tistic obituary, hauled out and burnished up for publication so many times it's getting frayed around the edges, was replaced in the files today under the "B'S."

Victor by a hairline decision over rugged Tommy Farr before a roaring crowd of 18,000 at Madison Square Garden last night in his latest "comeback," the stout-hearted ex-champion again was in the forefront of the heavyweights.

How he did it nobody knew—anymore than they knew how he took the title away from Maxie Baer a couple of years ago. But Jersey Jim, appearing to fade midway as his aging legs felt the strain had summoned that deathless fighting spirit of his once again in the waning minutes to win from a stronger, younger man.

Still the Spoiler.

At 32, by his own slightly prejudiced count, Jim could entertain only a forlorn hope of ever winning back the crown that Joe Louis knocked him loose from last summer. But he still was the spoiler.

Farr, dumbfounded at his loss to a veteran he had figured to wear down and punish cruelly inside the 10 rounds, mumbled about going back to the mines in his native Wales. He was more crestfallen than when the champion, Louis, chopped his face to ribbons at Yankee Stadium a few months ago.

He questioned the verdict bitterly, as did those who had backed him at odds as high as 3 to 1 shortly before ringtime. It was breathlessly close. One judge voted Farr; the other Braddock. Johnny McAvoy, the gnarled little referee, had marked four rounds for Braddock, four for the Welshman, and two even on his card. He cast his vote for Braddock. A draw decision would have been fair.

Farr lost in the final anlysis because he dropped two punches slightly low in the third round. McAvoy took the round away from him, when he had won it otherwise.

Going into the ninth round, practically every score card at the ringside had Tommy in front. He had belted Braddock's middle into a mass of angry red and purple welts and even Jim's most ardent supporters had resigned their man to a bad hiding in the last two rounds.

Slugs Farr Soundly.

Then Jim tore loose. Suddenly his tired legs came to life. He began swinging with both hands and beating Farr all over the ring. Putting every ounce he had left into the effort, Jim managed to slug Tommy soundly right through the ninth and the tenth.

Braddock admitted later in his dressing room that he had shot the works in those two rounds in a desperate effort to win. At the last bell he couldn't have gone much further, and Farr was recovering from the onslaught and starting to take the play again.

Outside of those two chapters, it was a very ordinary fight, nothing like the battle that had been forecast.

Steele Meets Cleveland Foe

Tangle In Opening Bout on Armory Card.

Convinced that his showing against R. R. (Railroad) Routt merits him further consideration, Matchmaker Tim Nolan of the Quality club today announced he has signed Francis Steele, Plymouth motor cop, to meet Joe Wheeler, Cleveland "eel", in the opening bout of Monday's wrestling attraction in the Armory.

Signing of the opener completes Monday's bill of fare, which is topped by the meeting of Frankie Hart and Joe Montana. Railroad Routt's victory over Francis Steele last week earned him a semi-final tangle with Joe Magyar.

Suggests Eight Periods To Slow Up Play

CLEVELAND — (UP)—Floyd A. Rowe, supervisor of physical welfare in Cleveland public schools, today moved to slow up the play of scholastic basketball teams.

With the elimination of the center jump many have expressed a belief the game's speed provides a physical strain on the competitors. To reduce this Rowe has ordered time keepers at all scholastic games to halt play for one minute midway in each quarter. Thus the contest actually will be played in eight periods.

Leaders Mark Up County Loop Wins

Ontario Halts Lexington to Retain Slim Lead, While Butler Continues In Second Place; Madison Whips Bellville.

By CHARLES MARTIN

A THRILLING last period rally enabled the Warriors of Ontario high to come from behind and topple the dangerous Lexington Minutemen, 27 to 21, on the Ontario court last night and retain their slim lead in the Richland county league race.

Trailing 18 to 16 going into the final stanza, the Warriors, led by Matt Hager and Dick Casad, broke loose on a scoring spree to win. It was Ontario's seventh league victory, which permits it to remain a half game ahead of Butler, victorious over Union last night.

Taking the lead in the opening frame, the Minutemen were able to hold onto their advantage through three quarters, but folded in the stretch.

The visitors, battling to remain in the title race, jumped into an 8 to 6 lead in the opening chapter and were ahead, 13 to 12, at the half.

Coach John Rees' charges continued to throttle the Ontario attack and went into the final period leading, 18 to 16.

At this point, Hager and Casad began to click on set-up shots and it was all over. Ontario outscored Lexington, 11 to 3, to win going away.

Hager was Ontario's offensive star, slipping in 13 points, and Casad followed with nine. France, Minutemen forward, topped the invaders with seven. Richard Rule, Lexington's all-county center last year, was held scoreless.

Lexington defeated the Ontario seconds, 13 to 10, in an overtime period in the prelim.

Butler Comes Back, Trims Union.

SMARTING from their initial Richland County Basketball league setback at the hands of Ontario last week, the Bulldogs of Butler high swung back into the win column last night by defeating Union, 32 to 23, at Union.

The triumph, No. 6 for the visiting Butler club, left it a half game behind the league leading Ontario quintet. Each club has suffered a single defeat. The setback was the seventh for the Union club.

Grabbing the lead in the opening frame, the Bulldogs led by King, whose rebounding was the deciding factor in his club's victory, never trailed.

The invaders hopped into a 9 to 6 lead in the first period and led 17 to 14, at the half. As play was resumed in the final chapter, Butler was ahead, 28 to 20.

King topped the individual scoring with 12 points, while Tolles, whose sharpshooting kept Union in the thick of the battle for three periods, led his club with 10. Kenny Miller, forward, collected seven.

Union won the preliminary tilt, defeating the Butler Reserves, 13 to 9.

Rams Tighten Grip On Third Place.

THE Rams of Madison tightened their grip on third place in the Richland county league last night by drubbing Bellville, 27 to 13, on the Madison hardwood.

Limiting the Bellville aggregation to a single field goal in the opening half, the Rams piled up a commanding lead and were never in trouble as they chalked up their fifth victory.

Led by Bill Wilkins and Joe Miller, Coach Al Fendrick's athletics smarting from the Lexington setback last week, encountered little trouble in slipping the leather through the hoop.

Hopping into a 9 to 3 lead in the opening period, Madison turned on the power and at halftime was ahead by a 20 to 3 count. The invaders broke loose long enough to tally five points after the intermission, but the Rams marched into the final chapter with a 30 to 8 advantage.

The triumph gave Madison a two-game lead over its nearest rival for third place, and left it three games behind the league leading Ontario outfit.

Wilkins was the offensive star of the evening, collecting 13 points to set the individual pace, while Miller trailed with 10. Martin, Bellville center, scored three points to top the losers.

The Madison reserves downed Bellville, 9 to 8, in a nip-and-tuck preliminary attraction.

PETIT JURY TO HEAR 4 CASES

Panel Convenes Monday For First Time In January Term Of Court.

Four cases, two of them personal damage suits, are scheduled for trial the first two days of next week before the county petit jury which will convene Monday for the first time in the January term.

First on the calendar is a $5,000 damage suit brought against the Pennsylvania Railroad company by Chester Nail, Mansfield. Nail sued for damages to his automobile and for personal injuries allegedly received at Crestline when his car was struck by a locomotive.

Although three cases are set for trial Tuesday, C. A. McKinley, assignment clerk, said it was probable that one or more of them will be settled out of court or continued. The cases are:

Millicent Andress, administratrix of estate of Upton Andress, deceased, vs. Joseph A. Bayer and O. A. Guisinger. For a $226 judgment. Attys. J. M. Reed and Howard Lutz will represent the plaintiff, while Bayer will plead his own case.

Charles Site vs. C. O. Broyler. For a $435 judgment on note; Attys. Leo Scanlon and John Berger, jr., for plaintiff, and Attys. A. S. Beach and R. P. Glosser for defendant.

Mahala Sampsel vs. Jeanette Heath. For $10,464 damages allegedly resulting from a traffic accident in December, 1934, near Mansfield; Atty. C. J. Kalbfleisch for plaintiff and Long, Anderson and Green for defendant.

POSTMAN DISLIKES ENVY

HOUSTON, Tex. —(U.P.)— Some mail carriers may envy A. Kramer, who delivers mail in a single building in Houston, but Kramer says his job isn't too easy. He walks more than six and three-quarter miles a day and carries on the average 207 pounds of mail.

Chuck-A-Boom: A Gag Becomes A Dance

1—Eleanor Powell was rehearsing, when a drum-roll caught her fancy. Her drummer said the roll was named "chuck-a-boom." It went from a gag to a step, from a step to a song. Eleanor starts it with four hops forward on the left foot.

2—Next, she hops forward on the right foot four times, then hops backward four times, still on the right foot. Then she repeats the whole thing with the left foot. All this time the music is going "Chuck-a-boom, chuck-a-boom, chuck-a-boom, chuck-a-boom." Some fun, eh? But do you think you can stand it?

3—Now! Jump with both feet in an imaginary square, then chuck-a-boom all over again. Eleanor says you don't have to jump this high, but the chances are you'll be leaping all over the place when this turn comes.

4—This is the chuck-a-boom sign, like truckin's pointed finger. As in other goofy steps, chuck-a-boom is done in the middle of ballroom dancing.

BRINGS ACTION

Flood District Asks Easements on 2 Farm Properties.

Actions against two property owners in Mifflin township had been filed in common pleas court today by the Muskingum Watershed Conservancy district which seeks to acquire easements on the defendants' lands for flood purposes.

The petitions, filed by Atty. John C. O'Donnell, counsel for conservancy district officials, name Samuel Harlan and Jennie Brokaw as defendants.

The actions followed the refusal of the land owners to accept the amounts offered for easements, the petitions say. They will be decided by a special jury to be impaneled in the county. Amounts to be paid by the Conservancy district will be set by the jury.

Harlan's property includes 86 acres, of which 70 are below the spillway of the Charles Mill dam, the petition states. Fifty-four acres of the 60-acre Brokaw property are below the spillway.

Complete reforestation of one-tenth of Puerto Rico within the next three years is the goal of the island's reconstruction administration.

4 FROM COUNTY AT CONVENTION

4 Officers of Young Democratic Club in Columbus Today.

Four officers of the Richland County Young Democratic club were in Columbus today for sessions of the state convention of Young Democrats of Ohio.

In the delegation from Mansfield were John F. Correll, president of the county club; Mrs. Louise Reese, secretary; Miss Mary Newcomer, treasurer, and James Jurgens, parliamentarian of the county organization.

Mrs. Reese is a member of the credentials committee and Frank Cave, Mansfield, is on the registration committee.

THE PIPER'S TUNE

CHAPTER IX

"Then stick with Nick and you'll see plenty. The big excursion starts out tomorrow night. Is that right, Terry? Or is it the next night?"

"Friday," said his friend shortly.

"You're right. It is Friday. Remember perfectly, now. Anyway, Annie, it's a party. All for you. We're throwing it in my diggings because I've got the most room. We fixed it up last night. Right, fella?"

"Why, yes . . ."

* * *

The constraint that Caradad had caught in Terry's manner several times before was very evident now. "I was telling some of the crowd that you were here," he offered. "Said that I wanted to arrange a little get-together so they could meet you. Nick here was good enough to suggest that we have our session in his apartment. Friday night—if that suits you, Dad."

"Well, there's one thing that doesn't suit me, "Nick interrupted firmly. "What's the big idea of calling a nice girl Dad?"

"Every one at home called me that," the owner of the name explained good-naturedly. "My father named me Caradad. It's really too much of a name to say when one's in a hurry."

"Maybe. But, of all things—Dad! You're still Annie to me and you're coming to my house Friday night. Right?"

"Of course I will! I think it's very nice of you—both."

"Well, don't include Terry," Nick protested. "He doesn't deserve the least consideration. I'm plenty sore at him."

"What did he do?" Caradad asked with an amused smile.

"Do? Get this! He shows up late at a party and has the sublime nerve to tell us that he's been dining with the Girl from The Golden West and didn't bring her along with him. By way of rubbing it in, he explains how she's his childhood pal on the range—gets eloquent no end telling the gripping romance. Now that I've seen you, Annie, I'm just beginning to realize what he was holding out on us. The tightwad. But we'll get even with him," he finished serenely. "You wait and see."

* * *

Caradad could not refrain from stealing a glance at Terry's face. For an instant, she was both hurt and indignant. If Terry had had an engagement after their dinner, why couldn't he have said so? She wouldn't have minded in the least and she would rather have heard it from him than from Mrs. Greenway and, now, from Mr. Tankersley.

Terry's demeanor was quite imperturbable. He replied in his familiar, good-natured drawl, "You know, Nicholas, I hadn't realized your ability to master details and retain them so long. You're improving."

"You'd be surprised," Nick chuckled. "I'm taking a correspondence course. But, gosh, how I hate to do this. . . ." He bestowed his ingenuous smile upon Caradad and rose to his feet reluctantly. "However, if you won't play Wild West with me, I'm going to toddle on. You and Terry can go ahead with your homecoming. After Friday, the old pioneer stuff is off. You're going Chicago in a big way. Until then—so long." With a wave of his hand, he strolled in the direction of the lobby stairway.

"Isn't he funny!" Caradad exclaimed, when Nick had passed out of earshot. She was determined to take no notice of their caller's remarks about the previous evening, unless Terry followed it up. Apparently, he had no intention of doing so.

"Quite a character." Terry answered musingly, staring at the lamp.

"Tell me about him."

"I don't know a whole lot of his background, to tell you the truth. He's an orphan and lives all alone in mean little penthouse apartment upon the Gold Coast. Sixteen rooms, I believe. About as many servants."

"He sounds like a success. What does he do?"

"Not a thing—the way you mean. And I wouldn't call him a success, exactly."

"What do you mean?"

"I think he has some vague ambition in regard to cornering the country's best liquor—sampling it personally. He has such a dumb, good-natured way of talking that it's hard to tell when he's under the influence and when he isn't. You had a sample just now. But he's a good chap—knows everybody in Chicago that's worth while. And plenty who aren't. They play him, too. He has more money than he knows what to do with and never has been known to resist a hard-luck story."

"That's a shame, isn't it."

"Sure. But I've found him useful." Terry must have sensed the quick glance from Caradad's brown eyes, for he gave her one of his slow smiles as he explained his last remark with: "Don't get me wrong, Dad. I've never gotten into the boy for anything, except to let him settle the check. That's an established custom. I've merely tried to keep in with him for business reasons. He's introduced me to a lot of people of his set—the sort of customers I need."

"Oh . . . of course. Doesn't he have any interests at all? Real ones?"

Terry chuckled. "Yes, but you'd never guess it. Collects first editions and reads ten-cent magazines. He's nothing but an overgrown kid in lots of ways."

"How old do you imagine he is?"

"Older than you think. Got a couple of years on me."

"That makes him a real ancient."

"I'll say it does. I'm beginning to feel my age." Terry said that with a mirthless laugh. "Wrangling a mere existence in a big town isn't what it's cracked up to be. It sort of gets you after a bit." He scowled at the light and pulled at his pipe without results. It had gone out. "Do you know, Dad, I almost wish sometimes I'd stayed down home with the old man. Perhaps I wouldn't have been very much farther along, but. . . ."

"But what, Terry?"

"Oh, I don't know. I reckon that seeing you again has made me a little homesick, maybe. Like getting a breath of fresh air. The folks down our way don't expect so much out of life and they're not disappointed when they don't get it. You know the old saying . . . something about dumb folks being the happiest."

"Is that a part of the reaction from seeing me?" Caradad murmured mischievously.

"Heck, no! You know I didn't mean that, Dad!"

"Terry . . . I wish you'd do something for me."

"Sure. What can I?"

"Tell me what's troubling you."

Bed Sheet Flag Saves Hospital From Warplanes

SHANGHAI—(AP)—The ingenuity of an American nurse in devising the Stars and Stripes from her uniform and a bed sheet is believed to have saved an American missionary hospital just outside Shanghai from destruction by Japanese bombers.

The flag is the work of Miss Vincoe Mushrush, nurse of the Nangtungchow Hospital on the Yangtze river, which is run by the United Christian missionary society. She was in one of the buildings when a squadron of Japanese bombers flew over the institution and released their projectiles.

When the main building was demolished, Miss Mushrush decided to display an American flag over what as left of the institution in the hope of saving the structure and the patients from further attacks by Japanese airmen.

Lacking suitable material with which to make the flag, Miss Mushrush tore bed sheets into long strips. Half of these she dyed with a mercuric solution to make the red stripes. The field for the stars she made by cutting up her blue flannel nurse's cape.

FOES OF CRIME

Radio Sending Equipment Put In Seattle Police Cars.

SEATTLE, Wash — (INS) — Criminals will have a harder time in Seattle from now on.

The police department started installation of radio sending equipment in its 23 prowler cars previously equipped with receivers. The additions will enable drivers to talk direct to headquarters, in addition to receiving instructions.

UNVEILS TOTEM POLE

WILLOUGHBY, O — (UP) — A totem pole, toted here from Alaska more than 50 years ago, was "unveiled" in the parish hall of the Grace Episcopal church here. The pole, of gargoyle-like heads piled one on top of the other, is 12 feet high, one foot in diameter and is believed to be about 200 years old.

MARKET DOWN FRACTIONS IN QUIET TRADING

Utilities Shade Lower After Government's Victory In TVA Case.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Small fractional declines appeared in today's early stock market dealings.

Utilities generally were only a shade lower following the government's Chattanooga court victory in the TVA case. Activity was quiet at the opening.

On the side of merchandising shares were reports from the mail order field indicating somewhat cumbersome inventories had been whittled down substantially in past months.

Figures of the Chicago Mail Order company, one of the first large catalogue houses to publish a 1937 statement, disclosed stocks on hand off 21 per cent from a year ago and commitments for future delivery down 70 per cent from the close of 1936.

SOVIETS REJECT REQUEST BY U. S.

Won't Permit Embassy Official to See Mrs. Rubens.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Soviet government has refused, at least temporarily, the United States request for an embassy official to see Mrs. Ruth Marie Rubens under arrest in Russia on suspicion of espionage.

Secretary Hull said he had been informed by that government that the Soviet internal authorities do not permit the representatives of any foreign country to visit persons in prison during the course of an investigation.

Hull was advised the foreign office believed it would be inadmissible for embassy officials to visit her until after the present Soviet investigation had been completed.

The Soviet government said no exception could be made in the case of the United States.

ONE PASSENGER FOR LEVIATHAN

Englishman to Be on Ship's Final Ocean Crossing.

NEW YORK —(AP)— A lone passenger will travel on the S. S. Leviathan when the mighty ship starts her final Atlantic crossing tomorrow.

He is an Englishman Geoffrey Russell-Hay, a principal in the firm of Hampton and Sons, London auctioneers. He will spend the 10 days at sea cataloguing the furnishings for sale preparatory to the breaking up of the ship for scrap metal.

Russell-Hay will have at his disposal accommodations in which 11,470 United States soldiers once traveled on one voyage to France.

ANTI-GAMBLING FEVER SPREADS

Mansfield Plans No Campaign As Drives Sweep Other Ohio Cities.

field are those in private clubs. Pin ball machines operate, police pointing out that in a case several years ago, a court ruling held they were not gambling devices.

In some cities, pin ball machines have been ordered out, and in some instances, private clubs and lodges have been ordered to remove slot machines, the Associated Press said.

The survey showed, the Associated Press said, that a number of the anti-gambling drives had started with the advent of new city administrations.

Harry J. Wernke, recently named safety director at Cincinnati, said he was working closely with police and state liquor control board authorities to oust "bookies" and other gambling. Sheriff George A. Lutz was reported working toward a "clean-up" of Hamilton county.

New Mayors Start Drives.

As a result of grand jury action and the advent of a new city administration, Lorain saw gambling disappear, even to the extent of removal of devices from lodge and club rooms.

Lee Copenhaver, who became mayor of East Liverpool Jan. 1, immediately began a drive, police arresting a dozen men for possession of "numbers" slips. Columbiana county Prosecutor Karl Stouffer considered appointment of a special agent to investigate conditions throughout the county.

All forms of gambling were banned in Coshocton by Mayor Ben M. Hardy, who set Jan. 24 as the deadline. The order followed protests from the Ministerial Association. Zanesville, Dennison and other cities in this section have ordered gaming halted.

In Cleveland, Safety Director Eliot Ness said one squad of police and detectives devoted full time to the field of vice, gambling and rackets since Mayor Harold H. Burton took office two years ago.

Columbus police continued their drive against all types of gaming, Safety Director H. E. French asserted. Numerous arrests of alleged "numbers" writers and operators were reported during the past several months.

Canton gambling was declared reduced to a minimum through activity of the Canton Civic Affairs committee, composed of 50 business and professional leaders. Outside investigators are brought in occasionally to check the city.

Clears Confusion Over Security Act Pay Deductions

"Despite a wide-spread belief that the rate of contribution for old-age insurance under the Social Security act increased at the beginning of the year, the rate remains at 1 per cent each for employer and employe," R. G. Mish, manager of the Mansfield office, said today.

"The rate will not change until 1940 when the worker will have to pay 1½ per cent of his salary into the fund," Mish added. The employer will be required to contribute an equal amount.

All contributions from the Mansfield district, which includes Richland, Ashland, Crawford, Marion, Morrow and Wyandot counties, are paid to the U. S. Collector of Internal Revenue at Cleveland. The amount for the first quarter of 1938 is due not later than April 30, Mish said.

More than 45,000 account numbers have been issued to workers in the Mansfield district, it was estimated, and since the Mansfield office became a typing center in September more than 2,150 numbers have been issued here, records show.

Ministers Hold Roosevelt Birthday Dances Are Demoralizing.

CLOVIS, N. M. — (AP) — Until dancing is eliminated from the annual President's Birthday balls, the Clovis Ministerial alliance intends to regard the whole business as "demoralizing."

"At such time as this movement shall be launched upon a higher moral basis, we shall be happy to join," pronounced the alliance today, declaring the annual affair "one of the greatest demoralizing influences the churches have to combat."

GALION CLUB WINS

GALION—The Galion rifle and pistol club, which includes three women, defeated the Richland Gasco club of Mansfield, 1392 to 1352, in a match in the armory here last night. Lloyd Bender led the Galion shooters with a 290, and Mrs. F. Rinehart was second with a 285 aggregate. C. A. Hassinger, 276, and Sidney Fry, 275, were high for the Mansfield club.

RENEWS CONN MURDER PROBE

Grand Jury Convenes After One 'Confesses,' Names 3 Others In Slaying.

burgh took Ford to Columbus last night for questioning by Col. Black.

"At the present time the case, in regard to the Conn slaying, looks very good, but we will have to investigate further before anything definite can be determined," Black said after talking to Ford.

Lacks Support.

Black, indicating he placed some credence in Ford's statement, said the investigation thus far had disclosed no definite basis for linking the four with the disappearance of Ruth Baumgardner, pretty Ohio Wesleyan university co-ed.

Col. Black said the Conn slaying was re-enacted yesterday with two of the men held for questioning.

The co-ed's mother, Mrs. Emma Baumgardner of Lakewood, near Cleveland, and Gaston Stickeler, private investigator in the case, also deprecated the kidnap angle.

"The way the Baumgardner part of the story came out was through a 'stool pigeon' who occupied the same cell with one of the four men under arrest," Stickeler said. "We have nothing but this man's word."

"This sounds just like another of the hundreds of meaningless clues we have received since Ruth disappeared," Mrs. Baumgardner asserted.

The co-ed disappeared from a dormitory at Delaware, O., on the night of May 5. Scores of clues since have been traced down without uncovering her whereabouts.

Patrolman Conn was shot to death while on a routine assignment, leaving the registration certificate of a car stolen in St. Paul, Minn., as the only clue. His body was found in a roadside ditch and weeks later the stolen car was found in flames near Cambridge, Minn. Only a fortnight ago, Conn's uniform cap was discovered in a woods near the scene of his death.

TAKE $820 LOSS

County 'Out' As 10 Lots Are Sold In Foreclosure Action.

Sale of 10 lots on Superior avenue, Mansfield, for $350, exactly two-thirds of the appraised value, at sheriff's auction at the courthouse this morning resulted in the loss of $820 to the county in delinquent taxes due on the properties.

County Treasurer John E. Kolb, who sought $1,170 in delinquencies and penalties on the lots, obtained the foreclosure order. Mrs. Grace H. Williams was defendant in the suit. She did not contest the action.

The lots, offered separately at first and then together, were purchased by James F. Burkhart, 243 East Arch street, Mansfield. The lots were sold under one of several foreclosure orders obtained recently on suits filed by Atty. Marshall C. Moore, special assistant prosecutor.

The proposed sale of three other Mansfield properties to satisfy a judgment obtained by the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank against Charles W. Gandert, was halted by Atty. William F. Voegele, counsel for the plaintiff.

Deputy Sheriff Frank E. Robinson, who is in charge of the auctions, said the case apparently had been settled and the sale cancelled. The lots were appraised at $10,950.

LODGE TO OPEN CARD TOURNEY

Elks To Begin Seven-up Tournament Monday.

The annual Elks' lodge seven-up card tournament will begin at 8:30 p. m., Monday at the lodge home and will continue for a period of four weeks, Bert B. Kuhn, secretary, announced today.

Play in the tournament will be held each Monday night, and is open to members of the lodge. Ten tables have already been entered.

Prizes will be awarded each week for high score, and a prize will be given at the end of the tournament for the total high score. Lunch will be served following the tournament.

BUILDING BOATS

'Pioneers' Get Ready to Float Down Ohio River.

WEST NEWTON, Pa. —(AP)— A band of 38 fur-capped college youths, "pioneers" of 1937-38, began today the task of building boats to float down-river to Marietta, O.

The members of the Northwest Territories caravan, following the route taken 150 years ago by another band, arrived here yesterday. Completing a 650-mile trek from New England, the band plans to stay here about 10 weeks building a flat boat, a galley and four or five canoes.

They sought particularly to find some way to end what the president called "high pressure" selling of automobiles on an installment basis.

Those who met with the president yesterday were Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor company; William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors Corporation; K. T. Keller, president, and B. E. Hutchinson, vice president of the Chrysler Corporation, and Alvan Macauley, president of the Packard Motor Car company.

Macauley, president of the automobile Manufacturers' association and spokesman for the group, said the manufacturers were "in hearty agreement" with President Roosevelt's principles on installment selling.

The president's next business conferences are to bring several "small" businessmen to the White House next week.

KILLED IN CRASH

Body Of Former Richland Man To Be Returned For Burial.

Funeral services for Harry Kauffman, 45, of Rockwood, Mich., a native of Richland county, who was killed in an automobile accident in Detroit Thursday, will be held at the Finefrock funeral home at 2:30 p. m. Sunday with Rev. James Ellington officiating. Burial will be in the Windsor cemetery. The body was brought to the Finefrock funeral home yesterday.

Kauffman was in the front seat of a car driven by another Rockwood man when the machine careened into the rear of a truck. The automobile slid under the corner of the truck in such a way that the back end of the truck smashed the windshield and crushed the passenger's head.

Surviving are his wife, Ida; two sons, Virgil and Daniel; a daughter, Leona of Rockwood, Mich.; his mother, Mrs. Martha Barnes Kauffman of Mansfield; five brothers, John of Akron, Glenn of Kansas City, Dwight of Crestline and Charles and Ray of Ashland, and three sisters, Mrs. Harvey Pluck and Mrs. Velma Friend of Mansfield and Mrs. Carl Steward of Lincoln Heights.

GALION ACTS TO STEM SMALLPOX

Vaccinations Ordered After Girl Becomes Ill; Only One Diphtheria Case Here.

While Mansfield health authorities reported "no new developments" in their check on diphtheria here, city, school and health officials of Galion made a concerted move to stem a threatened spread of smallpox there.

Health Commissioner J. G. Mannhardt ordered the vaccination of all children in the Galion schools following a reported case of smallpox in the high school. The victim is Miss Thyra Schmauch.

Following a meeting with Mayor W. M. King and Superintendent of Schools O. E. Hill, Mannhardt ordered all school children who have not been vaccinated in the past seven years to go to their family physician and be inoculated.

Supt. Hill ordered the cancellation of the Galion-Bucyrus high school basketball game which was to have been played in Galion last night. The precaution, he said, was taken to eliminate the possibility of spread of the disease in the city or to other communities.

Dr. Rehder said throat cultures taken from five persons who had been in contact with W. D. Cameron Foley, assistant manager of the Mansfield-Leland hotel, had all been negative, showing no diphtheria germs present. Foley has been isolated as a carrier, but does not have diphtheria, Dr. Rehder said.

Cultures of persons who have come in contact with four other carriers—all employes of Mansfield General hospital—were to be examined today. These four are Harold W. York, laboratory attendant, Miss Elinor Mowers, a nurse, and Frank Sellers and James McCarrick, workmen. They also have been isolated.

Clarence Feeman, 4, who is the only person actually to have been ill with diphtheria in the recent scare, was released from the hospital, where he had been quarantined, yesterday.

Not That It Matters

ACQUIRING a reputation as a great wit and humorist isn't the result of possessing a "singing heart," according to Strickland Gillilan, dean of American wise crackers, who spoke at the Westinghouse Institute conference yesterday, but merely a matter of mental agility. "You can't have mental arthritis and be a humorist" he told me at lunch yesterday.

"How does a humorist get that way?" I asked him, "is there some secret formula? Or some magic mental fountain that you turn off and on when you want a funny speech or wise crack?"

He looked sad. "That's what most everybody thinks," he opined, "and as a result humorists are asked to 'say something funny' at parties and social gatherings, much as the family pup is told to sit up and speak. A humorist is a sour puss who is so serious and pessimistic that wise cracking is a defensive measure against himself."

* * *

MANY of Gillilan's original gags, long forgotten by the public, are revived frequently by the professional gag men of today, and all too frequently passed out as their own. One of his definitions has survived a couple of decades—"a blotter is something you look for while the ink dries."

He is rather proud of being the author of the shortest "perfect poem" ever written. It is his "Antiquity of Microbes," and tells a complete story in rhyme and meter:

Adam
Had 'em.

* * *

PERSONALLY, I've always liked best this bit of Gillilan philosophy: "Egotism is the anaesthetic nature gives to deaden the pain of being a fool." And yesterday he said "If there's anyone who can't remember when he was a fool, he's one yet."

Gillilan, who is now one of the press commentators in Washington, first rose to fame 41 years ago with his alliterative jingle of "Off Again—On Again—Gone Again — Finnegan."

He disclaimed writing "The Happy Moron," so frequently attributed to him, and credits it to a professor at Amherst. It's one of the things I mutter under my breath on Bad Days:

"Oh see the happy moron!
He does not give a damn;:
I wish I were a moron—
Migod! Perhaps I am!

WE'RE sorry as everything that the Frederick Marches' show closed after only a week in New York City and was a most discouraging flop. But we do have that comfortable I-told-you-so feeling, for we were the only one of the Ohio theater writers who saw it in Columbus at its opening and predicted it would hit the floor so hard it would go "umph," when it reached New York.

Columbus writers referred to it as a "delightful satire" and "charming love story in costume, particularly suited to the much-in-love Marches." While I had to sit through an act and a half of the play before I even had a glimmering of what it was about!

The incomprehensible phase of it was that both March and Florence Eldredge, his wife, who are theater-trained, and John Cromwell, one of the greatest of all Hollywood directors, who directed the play, thought it was a honey.

CAME a letter this week from Mrs. Albert E. Heekin of Cincinnati, one of Ohio newspaper women's staunchest friends, saying she and her husband are sailing from New York for Africa where they will journey 10,000 miles over the dark continent.

They will go 2,000 miles down the Nile in a house boat, and then 4,000 miles by rail into the interior, and another 6,000 miles by motor caravan with native guides. They will camp 12 days at Kenya Colony for big game hunting.

Nice work if you can get it.

FROM the Mail Bag: R. L. S. writes a stinging rebuke—too stinging to be printed in full—to the "so-called culture-loving women of the city" who were conspicuous by their absence the other night at the Mary McCormic concert. Of the citizens who are always urging "better things" for Mansfield, she says: "Their absence at the concert throws an x-ray on their sincerity. Had the tickets sold for $2 instead of 25 cents, all of the music lovers and culture-seekers would have been there. Had I been Miss McCormic I wouldn't have sung a stanza to so small a group. But hurt and bewildered as she must have been, she exhibited a fine gallantry and sang beautifully to those of us who were there to listen."

I think R. L. S. is right about the price. But this is also true—as I have observed by watching the audiences at most of the imported and home talent musical events in Mansfield for the past eight years: there are just about 400 persons in Mansfield who will attend any of them because they want to. The others have all been strong-armed into buying tickets. There was no advance ticket sale for the McCormic concert, and therefore there were only about 350 or 400 persons there—but they came because they wanted to. That is as many as ever attend any cultural event in Mansfield—voluntarily.

MOOM PITCHER STUFF: That scene in "Wells-Fargo" showing the long wagon train winding across the plains was either a pick-up from the old silent picture hit, "Covered Wagon," or a replica . . . And the brief scene in the same picture of the gorgeously beautiful woman who accompanied the villain to the San Francisco restaurant for a New Year's eve celebration—remember? The character was Lola Montez, beauteous mistress of King Ludwig of Bavaria, who journeyed to San Francisco in the late 1840's—and married a Mansfielder enroute . . If Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers never team up for another dancing picture, Alice Faye and George Murphy of "You're a Sweetheart" can take their places . . . Carole Lombard is bewailing the fact that although she made $460,000 last year on four pictures, her taxes and living expenses will take $400,000 of it. Still $60,000 to tuck away in the old sock would make a comfortable bulge. . . .

5 Facing Prison in Ohio WPA Fraud Case

FEDERAL JURY FREES ONE OF 6 DEFENDANTS

Quintet Purchased Trucks In Names Of Laborers To Hike Earnings, Claim.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—A jury verdict finding five or six defendants guilty of conspiring to defraud the U. S. government on a Mound City state park WPA project in Ross county today marked the close in federal district court of the first such trial in Ohio.

A jury of 12 men deliberated almost four hours and returned a verdict acquitting William A. Stauderman, Chillicothe, a former WPA timekeeper, and convicting five others.

Those found guilty were Henry C. Wallenhorst, Cincinnati, former WPA engineer, John Mossbarger, Clarksburg automobile dealer, Jerry Dennis, Wilmington, former WPA general superintendent; Roy Sampson, superintendent of the Mound City Memorial park, and Harvey G. Cutright, former WPA superintendent, now in charge of Fort Hill state memorial, Highland county. Cutright previously assisted Sampson at Mound City.

Three Released.

Sampson, Mossbarger, and Cutright, their new bonds of $2,500 posted by friends or relatives, were allowed their liberty. Wallenhorst and Dennis, failing to raise bond immediately, spent the night in city jail here.

Judge Mell G. Underwood informed defense council he would allow three days in which to file motions for a new trial. Sentence will not be imposed until after the court has ruled on the motions and appeal plans must be held in abeyance until after the legal move.

Maximum penalty for conspiracy to defraud the government is two years in a federal prison and $10,000 fine. Defense counsel may ask for suspended sentences and the court has wide discretion in fixing sentences within the limits defined by statute.

The defendants were charged with having trucks purchased in the names of laborers in order to give them an increased wage rating as "truck-owner-drivers," but the government contended the laborers received only a small part of the raise.

The indictment also alleged loss of federal government gasoline at Mound City and that workmen had done work for some of the men on government "time."

The various park associations were formed primarily to sponsor summer playground activities, but they now are broadening their activities into the winter season. Of course, there are no outdoor playground schedules in this type of weather, but they sponsor indoor functions. Heading the list of winter promotions at the pavilions are card games. The games have created so much interest that eliminations are being staged at each park, and later inter-park matches will be played. Bridge and pinochle are the most popular games, with euchre trailing.

Uphold All Major Activities Of Government Program To Compete With Utilities.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—(AP)—The Tennessee Valley Authority, victorious over 18 private utilities in a test of its constitutionality, promised co-operation today in speeding the case to the United States supreme court.

Every major activity of the government agency's unified program (flood control, navigation and power production) was held valid yesterday by a three-member federal court.

Attorneys for the utilities announced they would appeal. James Lawrence Fly, TVA chief counsel, said the agency would assist "in every way" toward expediating a final decision.

Utilities Depressed.

In New York, Wall Street reported that utility security owners were depressed especially by the ruling that TVA power competition was not only "lawful" but that privately owned power companies "have no immunity from lawful competition even if their business be curtailed or destroyed."

However, the financial community believed generally that power securities already had discounted the possibility of a pro-TVA decision, having been weak for some time.

"The decision paves the way for a rational, businesslike adjustment of relations between TVA and the private power companies," said David E. Lilienthal, the TVA director who was most concerned since the electric program was inaugurated under his guidance.

The reaction in Washington was varied.

"In view of the fact Sister Allen was a member of the court, I am not surprised," said Rep. Knutson, Minnesota Republican and TVA critic, citing the presence on the tribunal of Circuit Judge Florence Allen of Ohio, an appointee of President Roosevelt.

Mississippi's Democratic Congressman Rankin, a TVA champion, said "I hope it will mean the end of the attempt of the power trust to control the people by spurious injections."

The utilities sought an order halting the entire power program.

However, District Judge John J. Gore of Tennessee, who issued a temporary injunction against the TVA in the same suit in 1936, concurred with Judge Allen and District Judge John D. Martin to make yesterday's decision unanimous.

DIES IN STREET OUTSIDE CHURCH

Mrs. Minnie Schuster Taken Ill At Services; Heart Attack Causes Her Death.

Stricken while attending services at the Glad Tidings church, Mrs. Minnie Schuster, 58, of 186 Dickson avenue, died unexpectedly last night.

Mrs. Schuster became ill in the church and left before the end of the services. She collapsed as she reached the sidewalk opposite the church as she headed for her home.

A passerby found Mrs. Schuster lying on the sidewalk in a critical condition and summoned an ambulance in which she died en route to General hospital.

Coroner Hugh Winbigler said death was due to a heart attack.

Mrs. Schuster was born in Knox county, Jan. 10, 1880, but spent most of her life in this city. She was a member of the Glad Tidings church.

Surviving are her husband, Fred; four daughters, Mrs Hazel Thoma, Mrs. Helen Pugh, Mrs. Leota Wetzel and Mrs. Giftie Johnston; a foster daughter, Norman Jean; three sons, Allen, Harry and William Schuster; a sister, Mrs. Ella Bowman; two brothers, Harvey and Rolley Long, all of Mansfield, and 14 grandchildren and 13 great grand children.

Funeral services will be held at the Wappner funeral home at 3 p. m. Monday with Rev. A. L. Wilkinson of the Glad Tidings church officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

LEARNS OHIO PAID AGENTS FOR 'IMAGINARY' RAIDS FOR LIQUOR

COLUMBUS — (UP) — Evidence that state liquor inspectors reported liquor raids that never were made and turned in expense accounts for such imaginary raids was before the Ohio senate graft investigating committee today.

At a long hearing, the committee was told:

That Cleveland liquor inspectors reported to the state liquor department that they raided bootleg places and made arrests after these places had been raided by federal liquor agents.

That on several occasions, persons reported arrested actually never were apprehended.

That one inspector said he purchased illegal liquor from a bootlegger, who actually was in jail on a federal charge.

That liquor inspectors filed expense accounts for "buys" of illegal liquor, although no purchases were made.

S. M. Bowes, Cleveland, investigator for the federal alcohol tax unit, testified that his division had made raids and arrests in several cases where credit was claimed by state agents.

State Inspector J. L. Brunthaver testified that some of his reports were copied from reports of federal raids and arrests but denied that he had filed an account for any expense not actually incurred.

H. B. Armstrong, former Cleveland inspector and now Toledo enforcement supervisor, said he could not explain why he reported several raids days after they had been made by federal agents.

Alfred Humphrey, liquor enforcement chief, attended the hearing. Afterwards, he said he planned no action against the two inspectors.

Inspector Edgar Conker, Toledo, was unable to explain to the committee why he and another state officer filed expense accounts for liquor purchases from the same bootlegger on the same day.

Chairman J. Ralph Seidner of the investigating committee reported that "practically every state department, excepting the welfare department, has a surplus," despite requests of some departments for additional funds.

DIES IN HOME

Harry L. Barr, 69, Succumbs After Brief Illness.

Harry L. Barr, 69, of 304 East Second street, died at his home early today after a brief illness.

An automobile mechanic, Mr. Barr was born in Springmill, Aug. 29, 1868, and came to Mansfield in 1901 after spending several years on the west coast. He was a member of the Masonic lodge of Dunkirk, Ind.

Surviving are four brothers, Arthur of Long Lake, Mich., Burt of Hialeah, Fla., and Charles T., and John of Mansfield, and a sister, Mrs Dell O'Connell of Mansfield. His wife, Viola, preceded him in death.

The body was removed to the Finefrock funeral home where services will be held at 3 p. m. Monday with Rev. G. D. Mumford, assistant pastor of the First Lutheran church, officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

LUTHERAN TRAINING MISSION FOR DISTRICT OPENS TUESDAY

Forty-two Lutheran ministers from the central conference of the Lutheran Synod of Ohio will take part in a four-day teaching mission at the First Lutheran church beginning Tuesday.

The mission is under the auspices of the Committee of Evangelism of the Synod of Ohio of the United Lutheran church, and is being held to stimulate the spirit of evangelism in the churches of the synod, pastors said. Similar meetings will be held next week in three other cities in the state.

Leaders of the Lutheran church will speak at each session of the mission. Tuesday, the opening day, Rev. B. H. Pershing, Ph. D., D. D., professor at Hamma Divinity school, Wittenberg college, will be guest speaker. His subject will be, "The History of Our Church."

Wednesday Rev. E. E. Flack, professor at Hamma Divinity School, will have as his subject, "The Doctrines of Our Church." Guest speakers Thursday and Friday will be Rev. George M. Miley of Augusburg Lutheran church, Toledo, and Rev. Grover E. Sweyer, pastor of the First church here.

Other Lutheran minsters assisting with the mission are Rev. D. B. Young, Rev. Simon Metzger, Rev. M. G. Bishop, Rev. H. R. Merle, Rev. A. H. Smith, Rev. J. M. O'Morrow, Rev. W. M. Brandt, Rev. W. M. Hackenberg, Rev. H. S. Garnes, Rev. P. S. Kelley, and Rev. C. F. Sheriff, Rev. Sheriff, pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran church, is chairman of the mission.

Choirs from St. Paul's, St. Matthew's, St. Luke's, St. Mark's, and First Lutheran churches of Mansfield will furnish music for the various services. Following the formal service each night, there will be a half hour discussion on the subject under consideration that evening.

Members from 70 Lutheran churches in the Central conference are expected to attend the mission.

INSTALLS NEW PASTOR SUNDAY

Shiloh Baptist Church to Hold Service Tomorrow Afternoon.

Installation services for Rev. U. S. Munnerlyn, new pastor of the Shiloh Baptist church, 26 Wayne street, will be held tomorrow afternoon, with Rev. A. J. McCreary, pastor of Mt. Calvery church, preaching the installation sermon.

Rev. Munnerlyn will preach at the regular morning service at 11 on "Building for Our Maker and Lord." The installation service will be at 2 p. m. The Mt. Calvary choir and congregation will join with the Shiloh church for the service.

At the evening service at 7:30 p. m., Rev. M. L. Lawson, pastor of the First Baptist church of Crestline, will preach. The Crestline Junior choir will sing and the Crestline congregation will join in the service.

102ND BIRTHDAY

Woman Has Two Surprises on Anniversary.

SHELBURNE FALLS, Mass.—(INS)—Celebration of her 102nd birthday was the occasion for two happy events for Mrs. Electa Stratton. Despite a large amount of gifts and mail her greatest thrill on the day was the return home for the day of her son, George. Another thrill was provided by the gift of a cake by an 80 year old gentleman from Westfield.

Girl Unsure Of Feeling Asks Advice

By VIRGINIA LEE

I WONDER if men have the same feeling of responsibility toward girls who care for them as girls have toward men. I should say SOME girls and ditto men.

Maybe some of my young friends will let me know. By a sense of responsibility I mean, for instance, the feeling a girl has of letting a boy down when he falls in love with her and she cannot reciprocate, but is loath to turn him down because she fears to hurt him too much, maybe set him to drinking again after he had given up the habit for her sake.

Now, in my estimation, a girl is not responsible for a man's bad habits. They hurt him far more than they can her. And any man who is worthy the name should stop drinking to excess for his own health and future's sake. If he can't or won't, he isn't worth much consideration.

Time was when girls married to reform men—or so it was rumored. But no more. It can't be done, girls. Take it from me. And who wants to be mated to a man who is going out to get drunk if his wife burns the toast, buys a new hat of which hubby disapproves, or even stays at her bridge club so late that his dinner isn't ready when he comes home? In a word, you want a husband who has ethical standards of his own and lives up to them as well as mere frail humans can do.

So, SUNSHINE, I think you are somewhat confused in your mind in dealing with this young man who loves you so. I do not believe he will go back to drinking excessively whether you marry him or not. He has seen how much more worthwhile life is when spent with folk of high moral standards, and will, I know, find a better type of companion, even if you find you cannot love him enough to wed him.

The really important thing is: which of these young men do you care more for—your Bob or this other man? You seem to think it is Bob, so the answer to your problem is to tell the other young man that you are sorry, but you cannot go steady with him, as you love the other boy more. It is no compliment to any man to "feel so sorry" for him that you cannot trust him but must go with him or wed him or let him go to the dogs."

He would not be happy if he knew you were going with him for that reason, and most certainly would not wish a girl to marry him if she cared more for some one else. I hope I have clarified the matter in your mind.

The Lane sisters, Rosemary and Lola, make their screen debut with Dick Powell in "Hollywood Hotel," opening as the regular Saturday midnight feature at 11:30 p. m. today at the Ohio theater. The girls, formerly members of Fred Waring's orchestra, have the leading feminine roles. Lola as a temperamental movie star, who refuses to appear at a premiere, and Rosemary as a totally obscure hotel worker who takes Lola's place on the big night. Powell plays the role of a young crooner who comes to Hollywood with promises of a movie job, and gets into all sorts of difficulties before he wins success. He also falls in love with his leading ladies, Louella Parsons, dramatic critic and originator of the "Hollywood Hotel," air show, portrays the mistress of ceremonies introducing a number of stars in the famed "orchid room." Others in the large cast are Hugh Herbert, Ted Healy, Glenda Farrell, Frances Langford, Edgar Kennedy and Benny Goodman. Lewis Stone in "You're Only Young Once," ends tonight.

Concentrate On Best Features

By GLADYS GLAD

"America's Most Famous Beauty."

It upsets me to see a girl moon around the house bewailing the fact that she isn't the most popular girl in the world because her hair isn't the color she prefers, her nose isn't just the shape that suits her, and Dame Nature forgot to endow her with her share of dimples, long lashes, shapely stems or other desirable qualities.

You girls who are continually harboring a bee in your bonnet should take time out occasionally to thank heavens for the attributes you do have. And you should also take time to develop your good points.

The most beautiful charmers of history and of the present day were not born with beauty. Remember that Cleopatra had a very ugly nose, as well as a shapely body. Marie Antoinette suffered from the rich diet of the French court, and many of our modern beauties have their handicap but they still charm their publics.

Play Up Best Feature.

If you have a prominent nose, don't try to make cruel remarks about it to cover up your lack of beauty. Take an afternoon off and experiment with your makeup, to try to make your nose seem shorter or smaller. What's more, nature always provides us with compensations.

If your nose is not exactly perfect, you probably have lovely eyes. So play them up. The idea is to concentrate on your best features, and tone down the disappointing ones.

As a last resort, if you are honestly sure that you will never turn out to be a raving beauty, cultivate charm. It's not too easy a thing, of course, but remember, the most worthwhile things are the hardest to achieve.

Polish up on your grammar and your etiquette. Read up on new developments in the world so that you make an intelligent companion. Shop carefully for sleek, becoming clothes. Make yourself a gracious hostess, and your home the haven of your friends. Try to be as considerate, sweet-tempered and understanding as you can.

Men, of course, are initially attracted by the beautiful woman. But they are HELD by charm and personality!

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Astringent.

Anne: An excellent astringent lotion may be prepared from eight ounces of witch hazel and a four per cent solution of boric acid. If this proves too drying to your skin, use a solution of three parts rose water and one part glycerine.

Nail Biting.

Dotty: Nail biting is a habit that you will have to overcome through your own perseverance. A bit of tincture of aloes applied to the fingertips, however, will help you in overcoming this habit.

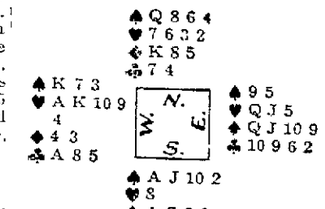
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

LIMITING TRUMP LEADS

IF YOU WANT to make some of your trumps separately by ruffing, it is well to limit as much as possible the number of times that a defender can afford to lead the suit, compelling you to use two trumps to take one trick. In some situations the trying of an early finesse, which loses, will enable the foe to lead trumps with impunity thereafter. In that same situation postponing the finesse may oblige him to lead something else on one of his turns since he dislikes leading away from his honor.



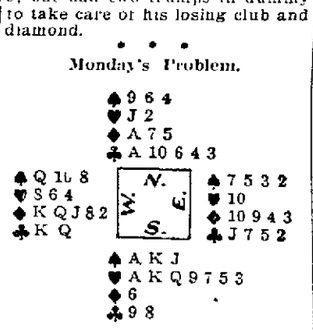
(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

In a team-of-four match this deal was played at 4-Spades by both declarers. One was set two tricks and the other made the contract.

The heart K was the opening lead, followed by the A which South ruffed. At the first table a diamond was now led to the K and the spade finesse tried, which lost. West returned a spade which South won and led a club to West's A. West led a third trump, which left no more in the South hand. The clubs Q and J were cashed, a diamond being discarded from dummy on the last. The diamond A was played and a diamond ruffed with North's last trump but this declarer had to concede the last two tricks.

At the other table, after ruffing the second heart, declarer led a diamond to the K and played a club, which West won. West led the spade 3, which South won. The clubs Q and J were cashed as well as the diamond A. When the diamond 6 was led, West ruffed with the spade K and led his last trump. South won with the J, but had two trumps in dummy to take care of his losing club and diamond.

Monday's Problem.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

What is South's correct play at six hearts after the lead of the diamond K?

My Neighbor Says:

After cellar has been given its spring cleaning, whiten walls, and you will have a much brighter and cleaner cellar.

Dumplings are most successfully cooked when they are left uncovered for five minutes, then cover tightly and cook 15 minutes more.

Wash flour sieves with water to which a little bicarbonate of soda has been added. Never wash them in soap suds as the soap is likely to adhere to the fine meshes.

To freshen a velvet gown brush it thoroughly to remove all dust and lint, then steam it on the wrong side and set it away to dry.

Use paper drinking cups instead of small bowls for the bits of cooking fat which you want to save. When you are ready to use the fat peel off the paper or cut a slice the desired size right through the cup. No fat is wasted and there are no greasy dishes to wash.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Miss Whitlock has an "aura" of cheerful dependability most soothing to jangled nerves. As Dicky ushered her through the doorway, and she met my outstretched welcoming hand with a firm clasp, giving an answering smile to mine, I felt the tension of my responsibility—and my nerves—relax for the first time in hours.

"It is so good of you to come to us," I said, and I meant it. "Which would you rather do first, go to your room, or eat supper?"

There is no hurry about either, as far as I am concerned," she said equably. "I am at your service for whatever you wish me to do."

I noticed that she made no inquiry about her patient, as a nurse might be expected to do, and Dicky supplied the answer.

"I told Miss Whitlock that you would explain about the 'patient'," he said smiling, "and I hinted enough so she won't expect to have to sit up all night, or prepare any hypodermics."

"Then, suppose we go up to your room and get you settled," I said. "By that time Katie's coffee will be freshly brewed, and you will be just in time for your supper."

"I remember Katie's coffee 'mit varm feelings in my insides'," she laughed, and we went upstairs to the guest room I had provided.

"How lovely and restful!" she commented.

Must Be Cautious.

"I am glad you like it," I replied perfunctorily, for my thoughts were occupied with the outline of her work which I must give her. I must tell her enough so that she would understand the situation perfectly, and yet must let slip no unnecessary word which would arouse her suspicion of Philip Veritzen.

"Did my husband tell you that we want you to go with us to New York tomorrow?" I asked.

"He said that my work would be there, yes, but nothing more."

"The rest can wait until after supper," I said, smiling. "It isn't terribly important, anyway, not like your last case with us. There's just one point of resemblance. You'll have no sick room duties."

"That will be nice," she said perfunctorily, and made no further comment until we had returned to her room from the dining room where she had done full justice to the delicious supper Katie had conjured from pantry and refrigerator.

Tells of Plans.

"A play of mine is in rehearsal in New York," I told her. "My husband's niece, Mrs. Veritzen, has a leading role in it. She and I are to occupy a suite at the Hotel Lansfield during the rehearsals of the play, and the run, if we are lucky enough to have one. Unfortunately, our niece has an enemy who is doing his best to injure her reputation in any way he can. It is a long story, and we will not go into it. But her uncle and I intend to protect her in every way possible. We do not intend that she shall be left alone at any time. We have engaged a room for you on the same floor as ours at the Lansfield, and I would like to have you hold yourself in readiness to take my place as her companion upon the occasions—rare ones—when I have to be away from the city, or when I am called away for a few hours. When I am away overnight, we wish you to leave your own room and spend the night in ours. You will have no particular duties, just be sure that you never are away from our niece. Have you any objections to the plan?"

"I'd be a bit of a fool if I did have, wouldn't I?" she countered. "It's virtually a vacation from work in the company of a lovely lady I like." She made me an airy little bow. "But what does my charge think of the idea?"

Her practical, but wholly natural question brought a surprised qualm to my mind. What, indeed, would be Mary's reaction to this plan?

"She doesn't know anything about it yet," I said slowly.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, Jan. 23.

Sunday's horoscope is for a day of surprising, exciting and probably devastating events. Discord in employment or friction with a superior may result in sudden tempest, disruption, upheaval, with change or travel in the offing.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of sudden developments in which turmoil and tempest may be actuating elements. Strife, rash acts and incendiary conduct may make change, travel and distant places desirable.

A child born on this day may be a lively, temperamental little thing, but creative, original, adventurous. It may gain important position in strange places or in work of a scientific or original nature.

For Monday, Jan. 24.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a very interesting and intriguing day, with the mind keyed to some brilliant original or creative thinking. This may point to adventure or new associations, or it may be promoted by co-operation of persons approached through secret channels or by some manner of undercover agreements.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year in which their own original talents or creative efforts may be the root of conspicuous success. The co-operation of secret organizations, mergers and closed corporations is advised. Subtle or tacit agreements are obtainable, although it might be wise to have very specific contracts or written evidence of support.

A child born on this day may have an unusually keen, original, inventive and creative mind, with a critical faculty and literary ability of an unusual or curious slant. It may be kindly and win the attention of elders.

If the garden hose has sprung tiny holes, paint it with roofing paint and it will last the season through.

Use two tablespoons catchup or chili sauce when seasoning meat loaves, fish mixtures or savory stuffing.
